M. VVilliam Shake-ſpeare, HIS True Chronicle Hiſtory of the life and death of King Lear, and his three Daughters.

With the vnfortunate life of EDGAR, ſonne and heire to the Earle of Gloceſter, and his ſullen and aſſumed humour of TOM of Bedlam.

As it was plaid before the Kings Maieſty at White-Hall, vpon S. Stephens night, in Chriſtmas Hollidaies.

By his Maieſties Seruants, playing vſually at the Globe on the Banck-ſide.

Printed for Nathaniel Butter.
1608.

M. VVilliam Shake-ſpeare
HIS
Hiſtory, of King Lear.

Enter Kent, Gloceſter, and Baſtard.

Kent.

I Thought the King had more affected the Duke of Albeney then Cornewall.

Gloſt. It did alwaies ſeeme ſo to vs, but now in the diuiſion of the Kingdomes, it appeares not which of the Dukes he values moſt, for equalities are ſo weighed, that curioſity in neither, can make choiſe of eithers moytie.

Kent. Is not this your ſonne, my Lord?

Gloſt. His breeding ſir hath beene at my charge. I haue ſo often bluſht to acknowledge him, that now I am braz'd to it.

Kent. I cannot conceiue you.

Gloſt. Sir, this young fellowes mother could, whereupon ſhe grew round wombed, and had indeed Sir a ſonne for her Cradle, ere ſhe had a husband for her bed, do you ſmell a fault?

Kent. I cannot wiſh the fault vndone, the iſſue of it being ſo proper.

Glo. But I haue ſir a ſonne by order of Law, ſome yeare elder then this, who yet is no deerer in my account, though this knaue came ſomething ſawcely into the world before he was ſent for, yet was his mother faire, there was good ſport at his making, & the whoreſon muſt be acknowledged, do you know this noble gentleman, Edmund?

Baſt. No my Lord.

Glo. My Lord of Kent, remember him heereafter as my honourable friend.

Baſt. My ſeruices to your Lordſhip.

Kent. I muſt loue you, and ſue to know you better.

Baſt. Sir, I ſhall ſtudy deſeruing.

Glo. He hath beene out nine yeares, and away he ſhall again, the King is comming.

Sound a Sennet, Enter one bearing a Coronet, then Lear, then the Dukes of Albany and Cornwall, next Gonorill, Regan, Cordelia, with followers.

Lear. Attend my Lords of France and Burgundy, Gloſter.

Gloſt. I ſhall my Liege.

Lear. Meane time we will expreſſe our darker purpoſes,
The Map there; know we haue diuided
In three our Kingdome; and tis our firſt intent,
To ſhake all cares and buſineſſe of our ſtate,
Confirming them on younger yeares,
The two great Princes, France and Burgundy,
Great Riuals in our youngeſt daughters loue,
Long in our Court haue made their amorous ſoiourne,
And here are to be anſwer'd; tell me my daughters,
Which of you ſhall we ſay doth loue vs moſt,
That we our largeſt bounty may extend,
Where merit doth moſt challenge it:
Gonorill our eldeſt borne, ſpeake firſt.

Gon. Sir, I do loue you more then words can wield the matter,
Dearer then eye-ſight, ſpace, or liberty,
Beyond what can be valued rich or rare,
No leſſe then life; with grace, health, beauty, honour,
As much a childe ere loued, or father friend,
A loue that makes breath poore, and ſpeech vnable,
Beyond all manner of ſo much I loue you.

Cor. What ſhall Cordelia do, loue and be ſilent.

Lear. Of all theſe bounds, euen from this line to this,
With ſhady Forreſts, and wide skirted Meads,
We make thee Lady, to thine and Albanies iſſue,

Be this perpetuall. What ſaies our ſecond daughter?
Our deereſt Regan, wife to Cornwall, ſpeake.

Reg. Sir I am made of the ſelfe-ſame mettall that my ſiſter is
And prize me at her worth in my true heart,
I finde ſhe names my very deed of loue, onely ſhee came ſhort,
That I profeſſe my ſelfe an enemy to all other ioyes,
Which the moſt precious ſquare of ſence poſſeſſes,
And finde I am alone felicitate in your deere highneſſe loue.

Cor. Then poore Cordelia, and yet not ſo, ſince I am ſure
My loue's more richer then my tongue.

Lear. To thee and thine hereditary euer
Remaine this ample third of our faire kingdome,
No leſſe in ſpace, validity, and pleaſure,
Then that confirm'd on Gonorill; but now our ioy,
Although the laſt, not leaſt in our deere loue,
What can you ſay to win a third, more opulent
Then your ſiſters.

Cor. Nothing my Lord.

Lear. How, nothing can come of nothing, ſpeake againe.

Cor. Vnhappy that I am, I cannot heaue my heart into my mouth, I loue your Maieſty according to my bond, nor more nor leſſe.

Lear. Go too, go too, mend your ſpeech a little,
Leaſt it may marre your fortunes.

Cord. Good my Lord,
You haue bgot me, bred me, loued me,
I returne thoſe duties backe as are right fit,
Obey you, loue you, and moſt honour you,
Why haue my ſiſters husbands, if they ſay they loue you all,
Haply when I ſhall wed, that Lord whoſe hand
Muſt take my plight, ſhall carry halfe my loue with him,
Halfe my care and duty, ſure I ſhall neuer
Matry like my ſiſters, to loue my father all.

Lear. But goes this with thy heart?

Cor. I good my Lord.

Lear. So young and ſo vntender?

Cor. So young my Lord, and true.

Lear. Well let it be ſo, thy truth then be thy dower,
For by the ſacred radience of the Sunne,
The miſtreſſe of Hecat, and the might,
By all the operation of the Orbes,
From whom we do exſiſt and ceaſe to be,
Heere I diſclaime all my paternall care,
Propinquity and property of bloud,
And as a ſtranger to my heart and me,
Hold thee from this for euer, the barbarous Scythian,
Or he that makes his generation
Meſſes to gorge his appetite,
Shall be as well neighbour'd, pittied and releeued,
As thou my ſome-time daughter.

Kent. Good my Liege.

Lear. Peace Kent, come not betweene the Dragon and his wrath
I lou'd her moſt, and thought to ſet my reſt
On her kinde nurſery, hence and auoid my ſight:
So be my graue my peace as heere I giue,
Her fathers heart from her; call France, who ſtirres?
Call Burgundy, Cornwall, and Albany,
With my two daughters dower digeſt this third,
Let pride, which ſhe cals plainneſſe, marry her:
I do inueſt you ioyntly in my power,
Preheminence, and all the large effects
That troope with Maieſty, our ſelfe by monthly courſe
With reſeruation of an hundred Knights,
By you to be ſuſtain'd, ſhall our abode
Make with you by due turnes, onely we ſtill retaine
The name and all the additions to a King,
The ſway, reuenue, execution of the reſt,
Beloued ſonnes be yours, which to confirme,
This Coronet part betwixt you.

Kent. Royall Lear,
Whom I haue euer honor'd as my King,
Loued as my Father, as my Maſter followed,
As my great Patron thought on in my praiers.

Lear. The bow is bent and drawne, make from the ſhaft.

Kent.

Kent. Let it fall rather,
Though the forke inuade the region of my heart,
Be Kent vnmannerly, when Lear is mad,
What wilt thou do old man, think'ſt thou that duty
Shall haue dread to ſpeake, when power to flattery bowes,
To plainneſſe honours bound, when Maieſty ſtoops to folly,
Reuerſe thy doome, and in thy beſt conſideration
Checke this hideous raſhneſſe, anſwer my life,
My iudgement, thy yongeſt daughter does not loue thee leaſt,
Nor are thoſe empty hearted, whoſe low ſound
Reuerbs no hollowneſſe.

Lear. Kent, on thy life no more.

Kent. My life I neuer held but as a pawne
To wage againſt thy enemies, nor feare to loſe it,
Thy ſafety being the motiue.

Lear. Out of my ſight.

Kent. See better Lear, and let me ſtill remaine
The true blanke of thine eie.

Lear. Now by Apollo———

Kent. Now by Apollo, King thou ſwear'ſt thy Gods in vaine.

Lear. Vaſſall, recreant.

Kent. Do, kill thy Phyſition,
And the fee beſtow vpon the foule diſeaſe,
Reuoke thy doome, or whilſt I can vent clamour
From my throat, ile tell thee thou doſt euill.

Lear. Heare me, on thy alleigeance heare me;
Since thou haſt ſought to make vs breake our vow,
Which we durſt neuer yet; and with ſtraied pride,
To come betweene our ſentence and our power,
Which, nor our nature, nor our place can beare,
Our potency make good, take thy reward,
Foure dayes we do allot thee for prouiſion,
To ſhield thee from diſeaſes of the world,
And on the fift to turne thy hated backe
Vpon our kingdome; if on the tenth day following,
Thy baniſht trunke be found in our Dominions,
The moment is thy death, away,

By

By Iupiter, this ſhall not be reuokt.
Kent. Why fare thee well King, ſince thou wilt appeare,
Friendſhip liues hence, and baniſhment is here;
The Gods to their protection take the maid,
That rightly thinkes, and hath moſt iuſtly ſaid,
And your large ſpeeches may your deeds approue,
That good effects may ſpring from words of loue:
Thus Kent, O Princes, bids you all adew,
Hee'l ſhape his old courſe in a Country new.

Enter France and Burgundy with Glocester.

Glo. Heer's France and Burgundy, my noble Lord.
Lear. My Lord or Burgundy, we firſt addreſſe towards you,
Who with a King hath riuald for our daughter,
What in the leaſt will you require in preſent
Dower with her, or ceaſe your queſt of loue?
Burg. Roiall Maieſty, I craue no more then what
Your Highneſſe offered, nor will you tender leſſe?
Lear. Right noble Burgundy, when ſhe was deare to vs,
We did hold her ſo, but now her price is fallen;
Sir, there ſhe ſtands, if ought within that little
Seeming ſubſtance, or all of it with our diſpleaſure peec'ſt,
And nothing elſe may fitly like your Grace,
Shee's there, and ſhe is yours.
Burg. I know no anſwer.
Lear. Sir, will you with thoſe infirmities ſhe owes,
Vnfriended, new adopted to our hate,
Couered with our curſe, and ſtranger'd with our oath,
Take her or leaue her.
Burg. Pardon me royall ſir, election makes not vp
On ſuch conditions.
Lear. Then leaue her ſir, for by the power that made me,
I tell you all her wealth. For you great King,
I would not from your loue make ſuch a ſtray,
To match you where I hate, therefore beſeech you,
To auert your liking a more worthier way,
Then on a wretch whom Nature is aſham'd
Almoſt to acknowledge hers.

Fran.

Fra. This is moſt ſtrange, that ſhe that euen but now
Was your beſt obiect, the argument of your praiſe,
Balme of your age, moſt beſt, moſt deereſt,
Should in this trice of time commit a thing
So monſtrous, to diſmantle ſo many foulds of fauour,
Sure her offence muſt be of ſuch vnnaturall degree,
That monſters it, or you for voucht affections
Falne into taint, which to beleeue of her
Muſt be a faith that reaſon without miracle
Could neuer plaint in me.
Cord. I yet beſeech your Maieſty,
If for I want that glib and oily Art,
To ſpeake and purpoſe not, ſince what I well intend,
Ile do't before I ſpeake, that you may know
It is no vicious blot, murder, or fouleneſſe,
No vncleane action or diſhonoured ſtep
That hath depriu'd me of your grace and fauour,
But euen for want of that, for which I am rich,
A ſtill ſoliciting eye, and ſuch a tongue,
As I am glad I haue not, though not to haue it,
Hath loſt me in your liking.
Lear. Go to, goe to, better thou hadſt not beene borne,
Then not to haue pleas'd me better.
Fran. Is it no more but this, a tardineſſe in nature,
That often leaues the hiſtory vnſpoke that it intends to do,
My Lord of Burgundy, what ſay you to the Lady?
Loue is not loue when it is mingled with reſpects that ſtands
Aloofe from the entire point, will you haue her?
She is her ſelfe and dower.
Burg. Royall Lear, giue but that portion
Which your ſelfe propos'd, and here I take Cordelia by the hand, Dutcheſſe of Burgundy.
Lear. Nothing, I haue ſworne.
Burg. I am ſorry then you haue ſo loſt a father,
That you muſt loſe a husband.
Cord. Peace be with Burgundy, ſince that reſpects
Of fortune are his loue, I ſhall not be his wife.

Fran.

Fran. Faireſt Cordelia, that art moſt rich being poore,
Moſt choiſe forſaken, and moſt loued deſpis'd,
Thee and thy vertues heere I ſeize vpon,
Be it lawfull I take vp what's caſt away.
Gods, Gods! tis ſtrange, that from their cold'ſt neglect,
My loue ſhould kindle to enflam'd reſpect,
Thy dowreleſſe daughter King, throwne to thy chance,
Is Queene of vs, of ours, and our faire France:
Not all the Dukes in watriſh Burgundy,
Shall buy this vnpriz'd precious maid of me.
Bid them farwell Cordelia, though vnkinde
Thou loſeſt heere, a better where to finde.
Lear. Thou haſt her France, let her be thine,
For we haue no ſuch daughter, nor ſhall euer ſee
That face of hers againe, therefore be gone, (gundy.
Without our grace, our loue, our benizon: come noble Bur-
Exit Lear and Burgundy.
Fran. Bid farwell to your ſiſters.
Cord. The Iewels of our Father,
With waſht eyes Cordelia leaues you, I know you what you are,
And like a ſiſter am moſt loth to call your faults
As they are named, vſe well our Father,
To your profeſſed boſomes I commit him,
But yet alaſſe, ſtood I within his grace,
I would preferre him to a better place;
So farwell to you both.
Gonorill. Preſcribe not vs our duties.
Regan. Let your ſtudy be to content your Lord,
Who hath receiu'd you at Fortunes almes,
You haue obedience ſcanted,
And well are worth the worth that you haue wanted.
Cord. Time ſhall vnfold what pleated cunning hides,
Who couers faults, at laſt ſhame them derides:
Well may you proſper.
Fran. Come faire Cordelia. Exit France and Cord.
Gon. Siſter, it is not a little I haue to ſay,
Of what moſt neerely appertaines to vs both,

I thinke our father will hence to night.
Reg. That's moſt certaine, and with you, next month with vs.
Gon. You ſee how full of changes his age is, the obſeruation we haue made of it hath not beene little; he alwaies loued our ſiſter moſt, and with what poore iudgement hee hath now caſt her off, appeares too groſſe.
Reg. Tis the infirmity of his age, yet he hath euer but ſlenderly knowne himſelfe.
Gono. The beſt and ſoundeſt of his time hath bin but raſh, then muſt we looke to receiue frō his age, not alone the imperfection of long ingrafted condition, but therwithal vnruly waiwardnes, that infirme and cholericke yeares bring with them.
Reg. Such vnconſtant ſtars are we like to haue from him, as this of Kents baniſhment.
Gono. There is further complement of leaue taking between France and him, pray lets hit together, if our Father cary authority with ſuch diſpoſitions as he beares, this laſt ſurrender of his will but offend vs.
Regan. We ſhall further thinke on't.
Gon. We muſt do ſomething, and it'h heate. Exeunt.

Enter Baſtard ſolus.

Baſt. Thou Nature art my Goddeſſe, to thy law my ſeruices are bound, wherefore ſhould I ſtand in the plague of cuſtome, and permit the curioſity of Nations to depriue me, for that I am ſome 12. or 14. moone-ſhines lag of a brother: why baſtard? wherefore baſe, when my dementions are as well compact, my minde as generous, & my ſhape as true as honeſt madams iſſue, why brand they vs with baſe, baſe baſtardy? who in the luſty ſtealth of nature, take more compoſition and fierce quality, then doth within a ſtale dull lied bed, goe to the creating of a whole tribe of fops got tweene ſleepe and wake; well the legitimate Edgar, I muſt haue your land, our Fathers loue is to the baſtard Edmund, as to the legitimate: well my legitimate, if this letter ſpeed, and my inuention thriue, Edmund the baſe ſhall tooth'legitimate: I grow, I proſper, now Gods ſtand vp for Baſtards.

Enter Gloceſter.

Gloſt. Kent baniſht thus, and France in choller parted, and the King gone to night, subscrib'd his power, confined to exhibition, all this done vpon the gad; Edmund, how now, what newes?

Bast. So please your Lordship, none.

Glost. Why so earnestly seeke you to put vp that letter?

Bast. I know no newes, my Lord.

Glo. What paper were you reading?

Bast. Nothing my Lord.

Glost. No, what needs then that terrible dispatch of it into your pocket, the quality of nothing hath not such need to hide it selfe, lets see, come if it be nothing I shal not need spectacles.

Bast. I beseech you sir pardon me, it is a Letter from my brother, that I haue not all ore read, for so much as I haue perused, I finde it not fit for your liking.

Glost. Giue me the letter sir.

Bast. I shall offend, either to detaine or giue it, the contents as in part I vnderstand them, are too blame.

Glo. Lets see, Lets see.

Bast. I hope for my brothers iustification, he wrote this but as an essay, or taste of my vertue. A Letter.

Glost. This policy of age makes the world bitter to the best of our times, keepes our fortunes from vs till our oldnesse cannot relliſh them, I begin to finde an idle and fond bondage in the oppression of aged tyranny, who swaies not as it hath power, but as it is suffered, come to mee, that of this I may speake more; if our Father would sleepe till I wakt him, you should enioy halfe his reuenew for euer, and liue the beloued of your brother Edgar.

Hum, conspiracy, slept till I wakt him, you should enioy halfe his reuenew: my sonne Edgar, had he a hand to write this, a hart and braine to breed it in? when came this to you, who brought it?

Bast. It was not brought me my Lord, there's the cunning of it, I found it throwne in at the casement of my Closet.

Glost. You know the carracter to be your brothers?

Bast. If the matter were good, my Lord, I durst sweare it were his, but in respect of that, I would faine think it were not.

Glost.

Glost. Is it his?

Bast. It is his hand my Lord, but I hope his heart is not in the contents.

Glost. Hath he neuer heeretofore sounded you in this businesse?

Bast. Neuer my Lord, but I haue often heard him maintaine it to be fit, that sonnes at perfit age, and fathers declining, his father should be as Ward to the sonne, and the sonne mannage the reuenew.

Glost. O villaine, villaine, his very opinion in the Letter, abhorrid villaine, vnnaturall detested bruitish villaine, worse then bruitish go sir seeke him; I, apprehend him, abhominable villaine, where is he?

Bast. I do not well know my Lord, if it shall please you to suspend your indignation against my brother, till you can deriue from him better testimony of this intent, you shal runnne a certaine course, where if you violently proceed against him, mistaking his purpose, it would make a great gap in your owne honour, and shake in peeces the heart of his obedience, I dare pawne downe my life for him, hee hath wrote this to feele my affection to your Honour, and to no further pretence of danger.

Glost. Thinke you so?

Bast. If your Honour iudge it meete, I will place you where you shall heare vs conferre of this, and by an aurigular assurance haue your satisfaction, and that without any further delay then this very euening.

Glost. He cannot be such a monster.

Bast. Nor is not sure.

Glost. To his father, that so tenderly and entirely loues him: heauen and earth! Edmund seeke him out, winde me into him, I pray you frame your busines after your owne wisedome, I wold vnstate my selfe ro be in a due resolution.

Bast. I shall seeke him sir presently, conuey the businesse as I shall see meanes, and acquaint you withall.

Glo. These late Eclipses in the Sunne and Moone, portend no good to vs, though the wisedome of nature can reason thus and thus, yet nature findes it selfe scourg'd by the sequent effects, loue cooles, friendſhip fals off, brothers diuide, in Cities mutinies, in Countries diſcords, Pallaces treaſon, the bond-crackt betweene ſonne and father; finde out this villaine, Edmund it ſhall loſe thee nothing, do it carefully; and the noble and true hearted Kent baniſht, his offence honeſt; ſtrange, ſtrange!

Baſt. This is the excellent foppery of the world, that when we are ſicke in Fortune, often the ſurfet of our owne behauiour, we make guilty of our diſaſters, the Sunne, the Moone, and the ſtars, as if we were villaines by neceſſity, fooles by heauenly compulſion, knaues, theeues, and trecherers by ſpirituall predominance, drunkards, liars, and adulterers by an enforc'ſt obedience of planitary influence, and all that we are euill in, by a diuine thruſting on, an admirable euaſion of whore-maſter man, to lay his goatiſh diſpoſition to the charge of ſtars; my Father compounded with my Mother vnder the Dragons taile, & my natiuity was vnder Vrſa maior, ſo that it followes I am rough & lecherous; Fut, I ſhould haue beene that I am, had the maiden-leſt ſtarre of the Firmament twinckled on my baſtardy; Edgar,

Enter Edgar.

& out he comes like the Cataſtrophe of the old Comedy, mine is villanous melancholy, with a ſigh like them of Bedlam; O theſe Eccliſpes do portend theſe diuiſions.

Edgar. How now brother Edmund, what ſerious contemplation are you in?

Baſt. I am thinking brother of a prediction I read this other day, what ſhould follow theſe Eccliſpes.

Edg. Doe you buſie your ſelfe about that?

Baſt. I promiſe you the effects he writ of, ſucceed vnhappily, as of vnnaturalneſſe betweene the childe and the parent, death, dearth, diſſolutions of ancient armies, diuiſions in ſtate, menaces and maledictions againſt King and Nobles, needleſſe diffidences, baniſhment of friends, diſſipation of Cohorts, nuptiall breaches, and I know not what.

Edg. How long haue you bin a ſectary Aſtronomicall?

Baſt. Come, come, when ſaw you my father laſt?

Edg. Why the night gone by.

Baſt. Spake you with him?

Edg. Two houres together.

Baſt. Parted you in good tearmes? found you no diſpleaſure in him by word or countenance?

Edg. None at all.

Baſt. Bethinke your ſelfe wherein you may haue offended him, and at my entreaty, forbeare his preſence, till ſome little time hath qualified the heate of his diſpleaſure, which at this inſtant ſo rageth in him, that with the miſchiefe of your perſon it would ſcarſe allay.

Edg. Some villaine hath done me wrong.

Baſt. That's my feare brother, I aduiſe you to the beſt, goe arm'd, I am no honeſt man if there be any good meaning towards you, I haue told you what I haue ſeen & heard, but faintly, nothing like the image and horror of it; pray you away.

Edg. Shall I heare from you anon? Exit Edgar.

Baſt I do ſerue you in this buſineſſe:
A credulous Father, and a brother noble,
Whoſe nature is ſo farre from doing harmes,
That he ſuſpects none, on whoſe fooliſh honeſty
My practiſes ride eaſie, I ſee the buſineſſe,
Let me if not by birth, haue lands by wit,
All with me's meete, that I can faſhion fit. Exit.

Enter Gonorill and a Gentleman.

Gon. Did my Farher ſtrike my gentleman for chiding of his foole?

Gent. Yes Madam.

Gon. By day and night he wrongs me,
Euery houre he flaſhes into one groſſe crime or other,
That ſets vs all at ods, Ile not endure it;
His knights grow riotous, and himſelfe vpbraids vs
On euery trifle when he returnes from hunting,
I will not ſpeake with him, ſay I am ſicke,
If you come ſlacke of former ſeruices,
You ſhall do well, the fault of it Ile anſwer.

Gent. Hee's comming Madam, I heare him.

Gon. Put on what weary negligence you pleaſe, you and your fellow-ſeruants, Ide haue it come in queſtion, if he diſlike it, let him to our ſiſter, whoſe minde & mine I know in that are one, not to be ouer-rulde; idle olde man that ſtill would manage thoſe authorities that he hath giuen away, now by my life olde fooles are babes againe, and muſt be vſed with checkes as flatteries, when they are ſeene abus'd, remember what I tell you.

Gent. Very well, Madam.

Gon. And let his Knights haue colder lookes among you, what growes of it no matter, aduiſe your fellowes ſo, I would breed from hence occaſions, and I ſhall, that I may ſpeake, Ile write ſtraight to my ſiſter to hold my very courſe; goe prepare for dinner. Exit.

Enter Kent.

Ken. If but as well I other accents borrow, that can my ſpeech defuſe, my good intent may carry through it ſelfe to that ful iſſue for which I raizd my likeneſſe; now baniſht Kent, if thou canſt ſerue where thou doſt ſtand condemn'd, thy maſter whom thou loueſt, ſhall finde the full of labour.

Enter Lear.

Lear. Let me not ſtay a iot for dinner, goe get it ready: how now, what art thou?

Kent. A man ſir.

Lear. What doſt thou profeſſe? what wouldſt thou with vs?

Kent. I doe profeſſe to bee no leſſe then I ſeeme, to ſerue him truely that wil put me in truſt, to loue him that is honeſt, to conuerſe with him that is wiſe and ſaies little, to feare iudgement, to fight when I cannot chuſe, and to eate no fiſh.

Lear. What art thou?

Kent. A very honeſt hearted fellow, and as poore as the King.

Lear. If thou be as poore for a ſubiect, as he is for a king, thou art poore enough, what wouldſt thou?

Kent. Seruice. Lear. Who wouldſt thou ſerue?

Kent. You. Lear. Doſt thou know me fellow?

Kent. No ſir, but you haue that in your countenance, which I would faine call Maſter.

Lear. What's that? Kent. Authority.

Lear. What ſeruices canſt thou do?

Kent. I can keepe honeſt counſaile, ride, run, marre a curious tale tale in telling it, and deliuer a plaine meſſage bluntly, that which ordinary men are fit for, I am qualified in, and the beſt of me, is diligence.

Lear. How old art thou?

Kent. Not ſo young to loue a woman for ſinging, nor ſo old to dote on her for any thing, I haue yeares on my backe forty eight.

Lear. Follow me, thou ſhalt ſerue me, if I like thee no worſe after dinner, I will not part from thee yet; dinner ho, dinner, where's my knaue, my foole, goe you and call my foole hether, you ſirra, where's my daughter?

Enter Steward.

Steward. So pleaſe you———

Lear. What ſaies the fellow there? call the clat-pole backe, where's my foole? ho, I thinke the world's aſleepe, how now, where's that mungrell?

Kent. He ſaies my Lord, your daughter is not well.

Lear. Why came not the ſlaue backe to me when I call'd him?

Seruant. Sir, he anſwered me in the roundeſt mannner, hee would not.

Lear. He would not?

Seruant. My Lord, I know not what the matter is, but to my iudgement, your Highneſſe is not entertain'd with that ceremonious affection as you were wont, there's a great abatement appeares as well in the generall dependants, as in the Duke himſelfe alſo, and your daughter.

Lear. Ha, ſaiſt thou ſo?

Seruant. I beſeech you pardon me my Lord, if I be miſtaken, for my duty cannot be ſilent, when I thinke your Highneſſe is wrong'd.

Lear. Thou but remembreſt me of mine owne conception, I haue perceiued a moſt faint neglect of late, which I haue rather blamed as mine owne iealous curioſity, then as a very pretence and purport of vnkindnes; I will look further into it, but wher's this foole? I haue not ſeene him this two daies.

Seruant. Since my young Ladies going into France ſir, the foole hath much pined away.

Lear. No more of that, I haue noted it, goe you and tell my daughter, I would ſpeake with her, go you call hither my foole; O you ſir, you ſir, come you hither, who am I ſir?

Stew. My Ladies Father.

Lear. My Ladies father, my Lords knaue, you whoreſon dog, you ſlaue, you curre.

Stew. I am none of this my Lord, I beſeech you pardon me.

Lear. Do you bandy lookes with me you raſcall?

Stew. Ile not be ſtrucke my Lord.

Kent. Nor tript neither, you baſe football plaier.

Lear. I thanke thee fellow, thou ſeru'ſt me, and ile loue thee.

Kent. Come ſir, ile teach you differences, away, away, if you will meaſure your lubbers length againe, tarry, but away, you haue wiſedome.

Lear. Now friendly knaue I thanke thee, there's earneſt of thy ſeruice.

Enter Foole.

Foole. Let me hire him too, here's my coxcombe.

Lear. How now my pretty knaue, how doſt thou?

Foole. Sirra, you were beſt take my coxcombe.

Kent. Why Foole?

Foole. Why for taking ones part that's out of fauour, nay and thou canſt not ſmile as the winde ſits, thou'lt catch colde ſhortly, there take my coxcombe; why this fellow hath baniſht two of his daughters, and done the third a bleſſing againſt his will; if thou follow him, thou muſt needs weare my coxcombe, how now nunckle, would I had two coxcombes, and two daughters.

Lear. Why my boy?

Foole. If I gaue them any liuing, ide keepe my coxcombe my ſelfe, theres mine, beg another of thy daughters.

Lear. Take heed ſirra, the whip.

Foole. Truth is, a dog that muſt to kennell, he muſt bee whipt out, when Lady oth'e brach may ſtand by the fire and ſtinke.

Lear. A peſtilent gull to me.

Foole. Sirra, ile teach thee a ſpeech. Lear. Do.

Foole. Marke it Vnckle; haue more then thou ſheweſt, ſpeake leſſe then thou knoweſt, lend leſſe then thou oweſt, ride more then thou goeſt, learne more then thou troweſt, ſet leſſe then thou troweſt, leaue thy drinke and thy whore, and keepe in a doore, and thou ſhalt haue more, then two tens to a ſcore.

Lear. This is nothing foole.

Foole. Then like the breath of an vnfeed Lawyer, you gaue me nothing for it; can you make no vſe of nothing Vncle?

Lear. Why no boy, nothing can be made out of nothing.

Foole. Prethee tell him, ſo much the rent of his land comes to, he will not beleeue a foole.

Lear. A bitter foole.

Foole. Doſt thou know the difference my boy, betweene a bitter foole, and a ſweete foole.

Lear. No lad, teach me.

Foole. That Lord that counſaild thee to giue away thy Land,
Come place him heere by me, do thou for him ſtand,
The ſweete and bitter foole will preſently appeare,
The one in motley here, the other found out there.

Lear. Doſt thou call me foole boy?

Foole. All thy other Titles thou haſt giuen away, that thou waſt borne with.

Kent. This is not altogether foole my Lord.

Foole. No faith, Lords and great men will not let me, if I had a monopolie out, they would haue part on't, and lodes too, they will not let me haue all foole to my ſelfe, thei'l be ſnatching; giue me an egge Nunckle, and ile giue thee two crownes.

Lear. What two crownes ſhall they be?

Foole. Why after I haue cut the egge in the middle and eate vp the meate, the two crownes of the egge: when thou cloueſt thy crowne in the middle, and gaueſt away both parts, thou boreſt thy aſſe on thy back ore the dirt, thou hadſt little wit in thy bald crowne, when thou gaueſt thy golden one away; if I ſpeak like my ſelfe in this, let him be whipt that firſt findes it ſo.
Fooles had nere leſſe wit in a yeare,
For wiſe men are growne foppiſh,
They know not how their wits do weare,
Their manners are ſo apiſh.

Lear. When were you wont to be ſo full of ſongs ſirra?

Foole. I haue vſed it Nuncle, euer ſince thou mad'ſt thy daughters thy mother, for when thou gaueſt them the rod, and putſt downe thine owne breeches, then they for ſudden ioy did weep, and I for ſorrow ſung, that ſuch a King ſhould play bo-peepe, and goe the fooles among: prethee Nunckle keepe a ſchoolemaſter that can teach thy foole to lie, I would faine learne to lie.

Lear. If you lie, wee'l haue you whipt.

Foole. I maruell what kin thou and thy daughters are, they'l haue me whipt for ſpeaking true, thou wilt haue mee whipt for lying, and ſometime I am whipt for holding my peace, I had rather be any kinde of thing then a foole, and yet I would not bee thee Nunckle, thou haſt pared thy wit a both ſides, and left nothing in the middle; heere comes one of the parings.

Enter Gonorill.

Lear. How now daughter, what makes that Frontlet on, Me-thinkes you are too much alate it'h frowne.

Foole. Thou waſt a pretty fellow when thou hadſt no neede to care for her frowne, thou, thou art an O without a figure, I am better then thou art now, I am a foole, thou art nothing, yes forſooth I will hold my tongue, ſo your face bids me, though you ſay nothing.

Mum, mum, he that keepes neither cruſt nor crum,
Weary of all, ſhall want ſome. That's a ſheald peſcod.

Gon. Not onely ſir this, your all-licenc'd foole, but other of your inſolent retinue do hourely carpe and quarrell, breaking foorth in ranke and (not to be endured riots) Sir, I had thought by making this well knowne vnto you, to haue found a ſafe redreſſe, but now grow fearefull by what your ſelfe too late haue ſpoke and done, that you protect this courſe, and put on by your allowance, which if you ſhould, the fault would not ſcape cenſure, nor the redreſſe ſleepe, which in the tender of a wholeſome weal, might in their working do you that offence, that elſe were ſhame, that then neceſſity muſt call diſcreete proceedings.

Foole. For you trow Nuncle, the hedge-ſparrow fed the Cookow ſo long, that it had it head bit off beit young, ſo out went the Candle, and we were left darkling.

Lear. Are you our Daughter?

Gon.

Gonorill. Come ſir, I would you would make vſe of that good wiſedome whereof I know you are fraught, and put away theſe diſpoſitions, that of late transforme you from what you rightly are.

Foole. May not an Aſſe know when the Cart drawes the horſe, whoop Iug I loue thee.

Lear. Doth any here know me? why this is not Lear; doth Lear walke thus? ſpeake thus? where are his eies, either his notion, weakneſſe, or his diſcernings are lethergy, ſleeping or waking; ha! ſure tis not ſo, who is it that can tell me who I am? Lears ſhadow? I would learne that, for by the markes of ſoueraignty, knowledge, & reaſon, I ſhould be falſe perſwaded I had daughters.

Foole. Which they, will make an obedient Father.

Le. Your name faire gentlewoman?

Gon. Come ſir, this admiration is much of the ſauour of other your new prankes; I do beſeech you vnderſtand my purpoſes aright, as you are old and reuerend, you ſhould be wiſe, heere doe you keepe one hundred Knights and Squires, men ſo diſordered, ſo deboyſt and bold, that this our Court infected with their manners, ſhewes like a riotous Inne, epicuriſme and luſt make more like a Tauerne or Brothell, then a great Pallace, the ſhame it ſelfe doth ſpeake for inſtant remedy, bee thou deſired by her, that elſe will take the thing ſhe begs, a little to diſquantity your traine, and the remainder that ſhall ſtill depend, to be ſuch men as may beſort your age, and know themſelues and you.

Lear. Darkneſſe and Diuels! ſaddle my horſes, call my traine together, degenerate baſtard, ile not trouble thee; yet haue I left a daughter.

Gon. You ſtrike my people, and your diſordered rabble, make ſeruants of their betters.

Enter Duke.

Lear. We that too late repent's vs; O ſir, are you come? Is it your will that we prepare any horſes, ingratitude! thou marble-hearted fiend, more hideous when thou ſheweſt thee in a childe, then the Sea-monſter, deteſted kite, thou leſſen my traine and men of choiſe and rareſt parts, that all particulars of duty know, and in the moſt exact regard, ſupport the worſhippes of their name, O moſt ſmall fault, how vgly didſt thou in Cordelia ſhew, that like an engine wrencht my frame of nature from the fixt place, drew from my heart all loue, & added to the gall; ô Lear, Lear! beate at this gate that let thy folly in, and thy deare iudgment out, goe, goe, my people?

Duke. My Lord, I am guiltleſſe as I am ignorant.

Lear. It may be ſo my Lord, harke Nature, heare deere Goddeſſe, ſuſpend thy purpoſe, if thou didſt intend to make this creture fruitefull, into her wombe conuey ſterility, dry vp in her the Organs of encreaſe, and from her derogate body neuer ſpring a babe to honor her; if ſhe muſt teem, create her childe of ſpleen, that it may liue and be a thourt diſuetur'd torment to her, let it ſtampe wrinckles in her brow of youth, with accent teares, fret channels in her cheekes, turne all her mothers paines and benefits to laughter and contempt, that ſhee may feele, how ſharper then a ſerpents tooth it is, to haue a thankleſſe childe, goe, goe, my people?

Duke. Now Gods that we adore, whereof comes this!

Gon. Neuer afflict your ſelfe to know the cauſe, but let his diſpoſition haue that ſcope that dotage giues it.

Lear. What, fifty of my followers at a clap, within a fortnight?

Duke. What is the matter ſir?

Lear. Ile tell thee, life and death! I am aſham'd that thou haſt power to ſhake my man-hood thus, that theſe hot teares that breake from me perforce, ſhould make the worſt blaſts and fogs vpon the vntender woundings of a fathers curſe, peruſe euery ſence about the olde fond eies, be-weepe this cauſe againe, ile plucke you out, and you caſt with the waters that you make to temper clay. yea, is it come to this? yet haue I left a daughter, whom I am ſure is kinde and comfortable, when ſhe ſhall heare this of thee, with her nailes ſhee'l fley thy woluiſh viſage, thou ſhalt finde that ile reſume the ſhape, which thou doeſt thinke I haue caſt off for euer, thou ſhalt I warrant thee. Exit.

Gon. Do you marke that my Lord?

Duke. I cannot be ſo partiall Gonorill to the great loue I beare you.

Gon.

Gon. Come ſir, no more; you, more knaue then foole, after your maſter.

Foole. Nuncle Lear, Nuncle Lear, tarry and take the foole with a fox when one has caught her, and ſuch a daughter, ſhould ſure to the ſlaughter, if my cap would buy a halter, ſo the foole followes after.

Gon. What Oſwald, ho.

Oſwald. Heere Madam.

Gon. What, haue you writ this letter to my ſiſter?

Oſw. Yes Madam.

Gon. Take you ſome company, and away to horſe, informe her full of my particular feares, and thereto adde ſuch reaſons of your owne, as may compact it more, get you gone, and after your returne——now my Lord, this mildie gentleneſſe and courſe of yours though I diſlike not, yet vnder pardon y'are much more alapt want of wiſedome, then praiſe for harmfull mildneſſe.

Duke. How farre your eies may pierce I cannot tell,
Striuing to better ought, we marre what's well.

Gon. Nay then——

Duke. Well, well, the euent. Exit.

Enter Lear, Kent, and Foole.

Lear. Go you before to Gloceſter with theſe Letters, acquaint my daughter no further with any thing you know, then comes from her demand out of the Letter, if your diligence be not ſpeedie, I ſhall be there before you.

Kent. I will not ſleepe my Lord, till I haue deliuered your letter. Exit.

Foole. If a mans braines were in his heeles, wert not in danger of kybes? Lear. I boy.

Foole. Then I prethee be merry, thy wit ſhall nere go ſlipſhod.

Lear. Ha, ha, ha.

Foole. Shalt ſee thy other daughter will vſe thee kindly, for though ſhe is as like this, as a crabbe is like an apple, yet I con, what I can tell.

Lear. Why what canſt thou tell my boy?

Foole. Shee'l taſte as like this, as a crab doth to a crab; thou canſt canst not tell why ones nose stands in the middle of his face?

Lear. No.

Foole. Why to keep his eyes on either side his nose; that what a man cannot smell out, he may spy into.

Lear. I did her wrong!

Foole. Canst tell how an Oyster makes his shell.

Lear. No.

Foole. Nor I neyther; but I can tell why a snayle has a house.

Lear. Why?

Foole. Why to put his head in, not to giue it away vnto his daughter, and leaue his hornes without a case.

Lear. I will forget my nature, so kinde a father; bee my horses ready?

Foole. Thy Asses are gone about them; the reason why the seuen starres are no more then seuen, is a pretty reason.

Lear. Because they are not eight.

Foole, Yes, thou wouldst make a good foole.

Lear. To tak't againe perforce; monster, ingratitude!

Foole. If thou wert my foole Nunckle, Ide haue thee beaten for being olde before thy time.

Lear. How's that?

Foole. Thou shouldst not haue beene olde, before thou hadst beene wise.

Lear. O let me not be mad sweete heauen! I would not bee mad, keepe me in temper, I would not bee mad; are the Horses ready?

Seruant. Ready my Lord.

Lear. Come boy. Exit.

Foole. She that is maid now, and laughs at my departure, Shall not be a maid long, except things be cut shorter. Exit.

Enter Bastard, and Curan meetes him.

Bast. Saue thee Curan.

Curan. And you sir, I haue beene with your father, and giuen him notice, that the Duke of Cornwall and his Dutchesse will be here with him to night.

Bast. How comes that?

Curan.

Curan. Nay I know not, you haue heard of the newes abroad, I meane the whisperd ones, for there are yet but eare-bussing arguments.

Bast. Not, I pray you what are they?

Curan. You may then in time, fare you well sir. Exit.

Bast. The Duke be here to night! the better best, this weaues it selfe perforce into my businesse, my father hath set guard to take my brother, & I haue one thing of a queasie question, which must aske breefenesse and fortune helpe; brother a word, descend brother I say, my father watches. O flie this place, intelligence is giuen where you are hid, you haue now the good aduantage of the night, haue you not spoken against the Duke of Cornwall ought, hee's coming hether now in the night, it'h haste, and Regan with him, haue you nothing saide vpon his party against the Duke of Albaney, aduise your——

Enter Edgar.

Edg. I am sure on't not a word.

Bastard. I heare my father comming, pardon me in crauing, I must draw my sword vpon you, seeme to defend your selfe, now quit you well, yeeld, come before my father. light heere, heere, flie brother flie, torches, torches, so farwell; some bloud drawne on me would beget opinion of my more fierce endeuor, I haue seene drunkards do more then this in sport; father, father, stop, stop, no helpe?

Enter Gloceſter.

Gloſt. Now Edmund, where's the villaine?

Bast. Heere stood he in the darke, his sharpe sword out, warbling of wicked charmes, coniuring the Moone to stand his auspicious Mistris.

Gloſt. But where is he?

Bast. Looke sir, I bleed.

Gloſt. Where is the villaine, Edmund?

Bast. Fled this way sir, when by no meanes he could——

Gloſt. Pursue him, go after, by no meanes, what?

Bast. Perswade me to the murder of your Lordship, but that I tolde him the reuengiue Gods, gainst Paracides did all their thunders bend, ſpoke with how many fould and ſtrong a bond the child was bound to the father; ſir, in a fine, ſeeing how lothly oppoſite I ſtood to his vnnaturall purpoſe, with fell motion with his prepared ſword, he charges home my vnprouided body, launcht mine arme; but when he ſaw my beſt alarumd ſpirits bold in the quarrels right, rouzd to the encounter, or whether gaſted by the noiſe I made, but ſodainly he fled.

Gloſt. Let him flie farre, not in this Land ſhall he remaine vncaught and found; diſpatch, the Noble Duke my maſter, my worthy Arch and Patron comes to night, by his authority I will proclaime it, that he which findes him ſhall deſerue our thankes, bringing the murderous caytiffe to the ſtake, he that conceales him, death.

Baſt. When I diſſwaded him from his intent, and found him pight to do it, with curſt ſpeech I threatned to diſcouer him; he replied, Thou vnpoſſeſſing baſtard, doſt thou thinke, if I would ſtand againſt thee, could the repoſure of any truſt, vertue, or worth in thee make thy words faith'd? no: what I ſhould deny, as this I would, I, thogh thou didſt produce my very character, ide turne it all to thy ſuggeſtion, plot, and damned pretence, and thou muſt make a dullard of the world, if they not thought the profits of my death were very pregnant and potentiall ſpurres to make thee ſeeke it.

Gloſt. Strong and faſtened villaine, would he deny his letter? I neuer got him: harke, the Dukes trumpets, I know not why he comes; all Ports ile barre, the villaine ſhall not ſcape, the Duke muſt grant me that: beſides, his picture I wil ſend far and neere, that all the kingdome may haue note of him, and of my land, (loyall and naturall boy) ile worke the meanes to make thee capable.

Enter the Duke of Cornwall.

Corn. How now my noble friend, ſince I came hether, which I can call but now, I haue heard ſtrange newes.

Reg. If it be true, all vengeance comes too ſhort which can purſue the offender; how doſt my Lord?

Gloſt. Madam, my old heart is crakt, is crakt.

Reg. What, did my fathers godſon ſeeke your life? he whom my my father named your Edgar?

Gloſt. I Lady, Lady, ſhame would haue it hid.

Reg. Was he not companion with the ryotous Knights that tends vpon my father?

Gloſt. I know not Madam, tis too bad, too bad.

Baſt. Yes madam, he was.

Reg. No maruaile then though he were ill affected,
Tis they haue put him on the old mans death,
To haue theſe——and waſte of this his reuenues:
I haue this preſent euening from my ſiſter
Beene well inform'd of them, and with ſuch cautions,
That if they come to ſoiourne at my houſe, ile not be there.

Duke. Nor I, aſſure thee Regan; Edmund, I heard that you haue ſhewne your father a child-like office.

Baſt. Twas my duty ſir.

Gloſt. He did betray his practiſe, and receiued
This hurt you ſee, ſtriuing to apprehend him.

Duke. Is he purſued?

Gloſt. I my good Lord.

Duke. If he be taken, he ſhall neuer more be feard of doing harme, make your owne purpoſe how in my ſtrength you pleaſe; for you Edmund, whoſe vertue and obedience doth this inſtant ſo much commend it ſelfe, you ſhall be curs, natures of ſuch deep truſt, we ſhall much need, you we firſt ſeize on.

Baſt. I ſhall ſerue you truely, how euer elſe.

Gloſt. For him I thanke your Grace.

Duke. You know not why we came to viſite you?

Regan. Thus out of ſeaſon, threatning darke eide night,
Occaſions noble Gloceſter of ſome prize,
Wherein we muſt haue vſe of your aduice,
Our father he hath writ, ſo hath our ſiſter,
Of defences, which I beſt thought it fit,
To anſwer from our hand, the ſeuerall meſſengers
From hence attend diſpatch, our good old friend,
Lay comforts to your boſome, & beſtow your needfull counſell
To our buſineſſe, which craues the inſtant vſe.

Exit.
Gloſt.

Glo. I ſerue you Madam, your Graces are right welcome.

Enter Kent, and Steward.

Steward. Good euen to thee friend, art of the houſe?

Kent. I.

Steward. Where may we ſet our horſes?

Kent. In the mire.

Stew. Prethee if thou loue me, tell me.

Kent. I loue thee not.

Stew. Why then I care not for thee.

Kent. If I had thee in Lipsbury pinfold, I would make thee care for me.

Stew. Why doſt thou vſe me thus? I know thee not.

Kent. Fellow I know thee.

Stew. What doſt thou know me for?

Kent. A knaue, a raſcall, an eater of broken meates, a baſe, proud, ſhallow, beggerly, three ſhewted hundred pound, filthy worſted-ſtocken knaue, a lilly liuer'd action taking knaue, a whoreſon glaſſe-gazing ſuperfinicall rogue, one trunke inheriting ſlaue, one that would'ſt be a baud in way of good ſeruice, & art nothing but the compoſition of a knaue, begger, coward, pander, and the ſonne and heire of a mungrell bitch, whom I will beate into clamorous whining, if thou deny the leaſt ſillable of the addition.

Stew. What a monſtrous fellow art thon, thus to raile on one that's neither knowne of thee, nor knowes thee.

Kent. What a brazen fac'ſt varlet art thou, to deny thou know-eſt me, is it two daies agoe ſince I beate thee, and tript vp thy heeles before the King? draw you rogue, for though it be night the Moon ſhines, ile make a ſop of the Moone-ſhine a'you, draw you whoreſon cullyonly barber-munger, draw.

Stew. Away, I haue nothing to do with thee.

Kent. Draw you raſcall; you bring Letters againſt the King, & take Vanity the puppets part, againſt the royalty of her father, draw you rogue, or ile ſo carbonado your ſhankes, draw you raſcall, come your wayes.

Stew. Helpe, ho, murther, helpe.

Kent. Strike you ſlaue, ſtand rogue, ſtand you neate ſlaue, ſtrike.

Stew. Helpe, ho, murther, helpe.

Enter Edmund with his Rapier drawne, Glocester, the Duke and Dutcheſſe.

Baſt. How now, what's the matter?

Ken. With you goodman boy, and you pleaſe come, ile fleaſh you, come on yong maſter.

Gloſt. Weapons, armes, what's the matter here?

Duke. Keepe peace vpon your liues, he dies that ſtrikes againe, what's the matter?

Reg. The meſſengers from our ſiſter, and the King.

Duke. What's your difference, ſpeake?

Stew. I am ſcarſe in breath my Lord.

Kent. No marualle you haue ſo beſtir'd your valour, you cowardly raſcall, nature diſclaimes in thee, a Taylor made thee.

Duke. Thou art a ſtrange fellow, a Tayloür make a man.

Kent. I, a taylour ſir, a Stone-cutter, or a Painter could not haue made him ſo ill, though he had bene but two houres at the trade.

Gloſt. Speake yet, how grew your quarrell?

Stew. This ancient ruffian ſir, whoſe life I haue ſpar'd at ſute of his gray-beard.

Kent. Thou whoreſon Zed, thou vnneceſſary letter, my Lord if you will giue me leaue, I will tread this vnboulted villaine into morter, and daube the wals of a Iaques with him; ſpare my gray-beard you wagtaile?

Duke. Peace ſir, you beaſtly knaue you haue no reuerence.

Kent. Yes ſir, but anger has a priuiledge.

Duke. Why art thou angry?

Kent. That ſuch a ſlaue as this ſhould weare a ſword,
That weares no honeſty, ſuch ſmiling rogues as theſe,
Like Rats oft bite thoſe cordes in twaine,
Which are to intrench, to inlooſe ſmooth euery paſſion
That in the natures of their Lords rebell,

Bring oile to ſtir, ſnow to their colder moods,
Reneag, affirme, and turne their halcion beakes
With euery gale and vary of their maſters,
Knowing nought like daies but following.
A plague vpon your Epeliticke viſage,
Smoile you my ſpeeches, as I were a foole?
Gooſe, if I had you vpon Sarum Plaine,
Ide ſend you cackling home to Camulet.

Duke. What, art thou mad olde fellow?

Gloſt. How fell you out, ſay that?

Kent. No contraries hold more antipathy,
Then I and ſuch a knaue.

Duke. Why doſt thou call him knaue, what's his offence?

Kent. His countenance likes me not.

Duke. No more perchance doth mine, or his, or hers.

Kent. Sir, tis my occupation to be plaine,
I haue ſeene better faces in my time,
Than ſtands on any ſhoulder that I ſee
Before me at this inſtant.

Duke. This is a fellow, who hauing beene praiſd
For bluntneſſe, doth affect a ſaucie ruffines,
And conſtraines the garb quite from his nature,
He cannot flatter he, he muſt be plaine,
He muſt ſpeake truth, and they will take it ſo,
If not hee's plaine, theſe kinde of knaues I know,
Which in this plainneſſe harbour more craft,
And more corrupter ends, then twenty ſilly ducking
Obſeruants, that ſtretch their duties nicely.

Kent. Sir in good ſooth, or in ſincere verity,
Vnder the allowance of your grand aſpect.
Whoſe influence like the wreath of radient fire
In flitkering Phœbus front.

Duke. What meanſt thou by this?

Kent. To go out of my dialogue which you diſcommend ſo much; I know ſir, I am no flatterer, he that beguild you in a plain accent, was a plaine knaue, which for my part I wil not be, though I ſhould win your diſpleaſure to entreate me to it.

Duke.

Duke. What's the offence you gaue him?

Stew. I neuer gaue him any, it pleaſd the King his maſter
Very late to ſtrike at me vpon his miſconſtruction,
When he coniunct and flattering his diſpleaſure
Tript me behinde, being downe, inſulted, raild,
And put vpon him ſuch a deale of man, that
That worthied him, got praiſes of the King,
For him attempting who was ſelfe ſubdued,
And in the flechuent of this dread exploit,
Drew on me heere againe.

Kent. None of theſe roges & cowards but Aiax is their foole.

Duke. Bring foorth the ſtockes ho?
You ſtubborne miſcreant knaue, you vnreuerent bragart,
Wee'l teach you.

Kent. I am too olde to learne, call not your ſtockes for me,
I ſerue the King, on whoſe imploiments I was ſent to you,
You ſhould do ſmall reſpect, ſhew too bold malice
Againſt the grace and perſon of my maſter,
Stopping his Meſſenger.

Duke. Fetch foorth the ſtockes; as I haue life and honour,
There ſhall he ſit till noone.

Reg. Till noone, till night my Lord, and all night too.

Kent. Why Madam, if I were your fathers dog, you could not vſe me ſo.

Reg. Sir, being his knaue, I will.

Duke. This is a fellow of the ſame nature,
Our ſiſter ſpeakes off, come, bring away the ſtockes.

Gloſt. Let me beſeech your Grace not to do ſo,
His fault is much, and the good King his Maſter
Will checke him for't; your purpoſd low correction
Is ſuch, as baſeſt and temneſt wretches for pilfrings
And moſt common treſpaſſes are puniſht with,
The King muſt take it ill, that hee's ſo ſlightly valued
In his Meſſenger, ſhould haue him thus reſtrained.

Duke. Ile anſwer that.

Reg. My ſiſter may receiue it much more worſe,
To haue her gentleman abuſed, aſſaulted

For

For following her affaires, put in his legs.
Come my Lord, away. Exit.

Gloſt. I am ſorry for thee friend, tis the Dukes pleaſure,
Whoſe diſpoſition all the world well knowes
Will not be rubd nor ſtopt, Ile intreate for thee.

Kent. Pray you do not ſir. I haue watcht and trauaild hard,
Some time I ſhall ſleepe out, the reſt Ile whiſtle,
A good mans fortune may grow out at heeles,
Giue you good morrow.

Gloſt. The Duke's too blame in this, twill be ill tooke. Exit.

Kent. Good King, that muſt approue the common ſaw,
Thou out of heauens benediction comeſt
To the warme Sunne.
Approach thou beacon to this vnder-globe,
That by thy comfortable beames I may
Peruſe this letter, nothing almoſt ſees my wracke
But miſery, I know tis from Cordelia,
Who hath moſt fortunately bene informed
Of my obſcured courſe, and ſhall finde time
From this enormious ſtate, ſeeking to giue
Loſſes their remedies, all weary and ouer-watcht,
Take vantage heauy eies not to behold
This ſhamefull lodging; Fortune goodnight,
Smile, once more turne thy wheele. He ſleepes.

Enter Edgar.

Edgar, I heare my ſelfe proclaim'd,
And by the happy hollow of a Tree,
Eſcapt the hunt, no Port is free, no place
That guard, and moſt vnuſuall vigilence
Doſt not attend my taking while I may ſcape,
I will preſerue my ſelfe, and am bethought
To take the baſeſt and moſt pooreſt ſhape,
That euer penury in contempt of man,
Brought neere to beaſt; my face ile grime with filth,
Blanket my loines, elſe all my haire with knots,

And with preſented nakednes out-face
The winde, and perſecution of the skie,
The Country giues me proofe and preſident
Of Bedlam beggers, who with roring voices,
Strike in their numb'd and mortified bare Armes,
Pins, wooden prickes, nailes, ſprigs of roſemary,
And with this horrible obiect from low ſeruice,
Poore pelting villages, ſheep-coates, and milles,
Sometime with lunaticke bans, ſometime with praiers
Enforce their charity, poore Turlygod, poore Tom,
That's ſomething yet, Edgar I nothing am. Exit.

Enter King, and a Knight.

Lear. Tis ſtrange that they ſhould ſo depart from hence,
And not ſend backe my meſſenger.

Knight. As I learn'd, the night before there was
No purpoſe of his remoue.

Kent. Haile to thee noble Maſter.

Lear. How, mak'ſt thou this ſhame thy paſtime?

Foole. Ha, ha, looke, he weares crewell garters,
Horſes are tide by the heeles, dogs and beares
By the necke, munkies by the loines, and men
By the legs, when a man's ouer-luſty at legs, hen he weares wooden neather-ſtockes.

Lear. What's he, that hath ſo much thy place miſtooke to ſet thee here?

Kent. It is both he and ſhe, your ſonne and daughter.

Lear. No.

Kent. Yes.

Lear. No I ſay.

Kent. I ſay yea.

Lear. No, no, they would not.

Kent. Yes they haue.

Lear. By Iupiter I ſweare no, they durſt not do it,
They would not, could not do it, tis worſe then murder,
To do vpon reſpect ſuch violent out-rage,
Reſolue me with all modeſt haſte, which way

Thou maiſt deſerue, or they purpoſe this vſage,
Comming from vs.

Kent. My Lord, when at their home
I did commend your Highneſſe Letters to them,
Ere I was riſen from the place that ſhewed
My duty kneeling, came there a reeking Poſte,
Stewd in his haſte, halfe breathleſſe, panting forth
From Gonorill his Miſtris, ſalutations,
Deliuered letters ſpite of intermiſſion,
Which preſently they read; on whoſe contents
They ſummond vp their men, ſtraight tooke horſe,
Commanded me to follow, and attend the leiſure
Of their anſwer, gaue me cold lookes,
And meeting heere the other Meſſenger,
Whoſe welcome I perceiu'd had poiſoned mine,
Being the very fellow that of late
Diſplaid ſo ſawcily againſt your Highneſſe,
Hauing more man then wit about me, drew;
He raiſed the houſe with loud and coward cries,
Your ſonne and daughter found this treſpaſſe worth
This ſhame which here it ſuffers.

Lear. O how this mother ſwels vp toward my heart,
Hiſtorica paſſio downe thou climing ſorrow,
Thy element's below, where is this daughter?

Kent. With the Earle ſir within.

Lear. Follow me not, ſtay there.

Knight. Made you no more offence then what you ſpeake of?

Kent. No, how chance the King comes with ſo ſmall a traine?

Foole. If thou hadſt beene ſet in the ſtockes for that queſtion, thou hadſt well deſerued it.

Kent. Why foole?

Foole. Wee'l ſet thee to ſchoole to an Ant, to teach thee ther's no labouring in the winter, all that follow their noſes, are led by their eyes, but blinde men, and there's not a noſe among a hundred, but can ſmell him that's ſtincking; let goe thy hold when a great wheele runs downe a hill, leaſt it breake thy necke with following it, but the great one that goes vp the hil, let him draw thee thee after, when a wiſe man giues thee better counſell, giue mee mine againe, I would haue none but knaues follow it, ſince a foole giues it.

That Sir that ſernes for gaine,
And followes but for forme;
Will packe when it begins to raine,
And leaue thee in the ſtorme.
But I will tarry, the foole will ſtay,
And let the wiſe man flie:
The knaue turnes foole that runnes away,
The foole no knaue perdy.

Kent. Where learnt you this foole?

Foole. Not in the ſtockes.

Enter Lear and Gloceſter.

Lear. Deny to ſpeake with me? th'are ſicke, th'are weary,
They traueld hard to night, meare Iuſtice,
I the images of reuolt and flying off,
Fetch me a better anſwer.

Gloſt. My deare Lord, you know the fiery quality of the Duke, how vnremoueable and fixt he is in his owne courſe.

Lear. Veangeance, death, plague, confuſion, what fiery quality; why Gloceſter, Gloceſter, ide ſpeake with the Duke of Cornewall, and his wife.

Gloſt. I my good Lord.

Lear. The King would ſpeake with Cornwall, the deare father
Would with his daughter ſpeake, commands her ſeruice,
Fiery Duke, tell the hot Duke that Lear,
No but not yet, may be he is not well,
Infirmity doth ſtill neglect all office, where to our health
Is bound, we are not our ſelues, when nature being oppreſt,
Commands the minde to ſuffer with the body; ile forbeare,
And am fallen out with my more headier will,
To take the indiſpoſed and ſickly fit, for the ſound man,
Death on my ſtate, wherefore ſhould he ſit here?
This acte perſwades me, that this remotion of the Duke & her

Is

Is practiſe, onely giue me my ſeruant foorth;
Tell the Duke and's wife, Ile ſpeake with them
Now preſently, bid them come forth and heare me,
Or at their chamber doore Ile beate the drum,
Till it cry ſleepe to death.

Gloſt. I would haue all well betwixt you.

Lear. O my heart! my heart.

Foole. Cry to it Nunckle, as the Cockney did to the Eeles, when ſhe put them vp i'th paſte aliue, ſhe rapt vm ath coxcombs with a ſticke, and cryed downe wantons, downe; twas her brother, that in pure kindneſſe to his horſe, butterd his hay.

Enter Duke and Regan.

Lear. Good morrow to you both.

Duke. Haile to your Grace.

Reg. I am glad to ſee your Highneſſe.

Lear. Regan, I thinke you are, I know what reaſon
I haue to thinke ſo; if thou ſhouldſt not be glad,
I would diuorce me from thy mothers toombe,
Sepulchring an adultereſſe, yea, are you free?
Some other time for that. Beloued Regan,
Thy ſiſter is naught, ô Regan ſhe hath tied
Sharpe tooth'd vnkindneſſe, like a vulture heere.
I can ſcarſe ſpeake to thee, thou't not beleeue,
Of how depriued a quality, O Regan.

Reg. I pray ſir take patience, I haue hope
You leſſe know how to value her deſert,
Then ſhe to ſlacke her duty.

Lear. My curſes on her.

Reg. O ſir, you are olde,
Nature on you ſtands on the very verge of her Confine,
You ſhould be ruled and led by ſome diſcretion,
That diſcernes your ſtate better then you your ſelfe,
Therefore I pray, that to our ſiſter you do make returne,
Say you haue wrongd her ſir.

Lear. Aske her forgiueneſſe,
Do you marke how this becomes the houſe?

Deare

Deare daughter, I confeſſe that I am old,
Age is vnneceſſary, on my knees I beg,
That you'l vouchſafe me rayment, bed and food.

Reg. Good ſir no more, theſe are vnſightly tricks,
Returne you to my ſiſter.

Lear. No Regan,
She hath abated me of halfe my traine,
Lookt backe vpon me, ſtroke me with her tongue,
Moſt ſerpent-like vpon the very heart,
All the ſtor'd vengeances of heauen fall on her ingratefull top,
Strike her young bones, you taking aires with lamneſſe.

Duke. Fie, fie ſir.

Lear. You nimbie lightnings dart your blinding flames
Into her ſcornfull eies, infect her beauty,
You Fen ſuckt fogs, drawne by the powerfull Sunne,
To fall and blaſt her pride.

Reg. O the bleſt Gods, ſo will you wiſh on me,
When the raſh mood——

Lear No Regan, thou ſhalt neuer haue my curſe,
The tender hefted nature ſhall not giue thee ore
To harſhnes, her eies are fierce, but thine do comfort & not burn
Tis not in thee to grudge my pleaſures, to cut off my traine,
To bandy hafty words, to ſcant my ſizes,
And in concluſion, to oppoſe the bolt
Againſt my comming in, thou better knoweſt
The offices of nature, bond of child-hood,
Effects of curteſie, dues of gratitude,
Thy halfe of the kingdome, haſt thou not forgot
Wherein I thee endowed.

Reg. Good ſir to the purpoſe.

Lear. Who put my man i'th ſtockes?

Duke. What trumpets that?

Enter Steward.

Reg. I know't my ſiſters, this approues her letters,
That ſhe would ſoone be here, is your Lady come?

Lear. This is a ſlaue, whoſe eaſie borrowed pride

 Dwels

Dwels in the fickle grace of her he followes,
Out varlet, from my ſight.
Duke. What meanes your Grace?

Enter Gonoril.

Gon. Who ſtrucke my ſeruant? Regan, I haue good hope
Thou didſt not know ant.
Lear. Who comes here? O heauens!
If you do loue olde men, if you ſweet ſway alow
Obedience, if your ſelues are old, make it your cauſe,
Send downe and take my part;
Art not aſham'd to looke vpon this beard?
O Regan, wilt thou take her by the hand?
Gon. Why not by the hand ſir, how haue I offended?
All's not offence that indiſcretion findes,
And dotage tearmes ſo.
Lear. O ſides, you are too tough,
Will you yet hold? how came my man i'th ſtockes?
Duke. I ſet him there, but his owne diſorders
Deſeru'd much leſſe aduancement.
Lear. You; did you?
Reg. I pray you father being weake, ſeeme ſo,
If till the expiration of your moneth,
You will returne and ſoiourne with my ſiſter,
Diſmiſſing halfe your traine, come then to me,
I am now from home, and out of that prouiſion
Which ſhall be needfull for your entertainment.
Lear. Returne to her, and fifty men diſmiſt?
No, rather I abiure all roofes, and chuſe
To wage againſt the enmity of the ayre,
To be a Comrade with the Wolfe and Owle,
Neceſſities ſharpe pinch, returne with her:
Why the hot blood in France, that dowerles
Tooke our yongeſt borne, I could as well be brought To knee his Throne, and Squire-like penſion beg,
To keepe baſe life afoote; returne with her?
Perſwade me rather to be ſlaue and ſumpter

To this deteſted groome.
Gon. At your choiſe ſir.
Lear. Now I prethee daughter do not make me mad,
I will not trouble thee my childe, farwell,
Wee'l no more meete, no more ſee one another.
But yet thou art my fleſh, my bloud, my daughter,
Or rather a diſeaſe that lies within my fleſh,
Which I muſt needs call mine, thou art a byle,
A plague ſore, an imboſſed carbuncle in my
Corrupted bloud, but Ile not chide thee,
Let ſhame come when it will, I do not call it,
I do not bid the thunder-bearer ſhoote,
Nor tell tales of thee to high iudging Ioue,
Mend when thou canſt, be better at thy leiſure,
I can be patient, I can ſtay with Regan,
I and my hundred Knights.
Reg. Not altogether ſo ſir, I looke not for you yet,
Nor am prouided for your fit welcome,
Giue eare to my ſiſter, for thoſe
That mingle reaſon with your paſſion,
Muſt be content to thinke you are old, and ſo,
But ſhe knowes what ſhe does.
Lear. Is this well ſpoken now?
Reg. I dare auouch it ſir, what fifty followers,
Is it not well? what ſhould you need of more,
Yea or ſo many, ſith that both charge and danger
Speakes gainſt ſo great a number, how in a houſe
Should many people vnder two commands
Hold amity, tis hard, almoſt impoſſible.
Gon. Why might not you my Lord, receiue attendance
From thoſe that ſhe cals ſeruants, or from mine?
Reg. Why not my Lord? if then they chanc'ſt to ſlacke you,
We could controle them; if you will come to me,
(For now I ſpie a danger) I entreate you
To bring but fiue and twenty, to no more
Will I giue place or notice.
Lear. I gaue you all.

Reg. And in good time you gaue it.
Lear. Made you my guardians, my depoſitaries,
But kept a reſeruation to be followed
With ſuch a number, what, muſt I come to you
With fiue and twenty, Regan, ſaid you ſo?
Reg. And ſpeak't againe my Lord, no more with me.
Lear. Thoſe wicked creatures yet do ſeeme well-fauour'd
When others are more wicked, not being the worſt,
Stands in ſome ranke of praiſe, ile go with thee,
Thy fifty yet doth double fiue and twenty,
And thou art twice her loue.
Gon. Heare me my Lord;
What need you fiue and twenty, ten, or fiue,
To follow in a houſe, where twice ſo many
Haue a command to tend you?
Regan. What needs one?
Lear. O reaſon not the deed, our baſeſt beggers
Are in the pooreſt thing ſuperfluous,
Allow not nature more then nature needs,
Mans life's as cheap as beaſts; thou art a Lady,
If onely to go warme were gorgious,
Why nature needs not what thou gorgious weareſt,
Which ſcarſely keepes thee warme, but for true need,
You heauens giue me that patience, patience I need,
You ſee me heere (you Gods) a poore old fellow,
As full of greefe as age, wretched in both,
If it be you that ſtirres theſe daughters hearts
Againſt their Father, foole me not too much,
To beare it lamely, touch me with noble anger,
O let not womens weapons, water drops
Staine my mans cheekes, no you vnnaturall hags,
I will haue ſuch reuenges on you both,
That all the world ſhall——I will do ſuch things,
What they are, yet I know not, but they ſhall be
The terrors of the earth; you thinke ile weepe,
No, ile not weepe, I haue full cauſe of weeping,
But this heart ſhall breake in a thouſand flowes

Ere ile weepe; ô foole, I ſhall go mad.
Exeunt Lear, Gloceſter, Kent, and Foole
Duke. Let vs withdraw, twill be a ſtorme.
Reg. This houſe is little, the old man and his people,
Cannot be well beſtowed.
Gon. Tis his owne blame hath put himſelfe from reſt,
And muſt needs taſte his folly.
Reg. For his particular, ile receiue him gladly,
But not one follower.
Duke. So am I purpoſd, where is my Lord of Gloceſter?
Enter Gloceſter.
Reg. Followed the old man forth, he is return'd.
Glo. The King is in high rage, and will I know not whether.
Reg. Tis good to giue him way, he leads himſelfe.
Gon. My Lord, entreate him by no meanes to ſtay.
Glo. Alacke, the night comes on, and the bleake windes
Do ſorely ruſſell, for many miles about there's not a buſh.
Reg. O ſir, to wilfull men,
The iniuries that they themſelues procure,
Muſt be their ſchoole-maſters, ſhut vp your doores,
He is attended with a deſperate traine,
And what they may incenſe him too, being apt,
To haue his eare abuſed, wiſedome bids feare.
Duke. Shut vp your doores my Lord, tis a wilde night,
My Regan counſels well, come out ath ſtorme.
Exeunt omnes.

Enter Kent and a Gentleman at ſeuerall doores.
Kent. What's heere beſide foule weather?
Gent. One minded like the weather, moſt vnquietly.
Kent. I know you, where's the King?
Gent. Contending with the fretfull Element,
Bids the winde blow the earth into the ſea,
Or ſwell the curled waters boue the maine,
That things might change or ceaſe, teares his white haire,
Which the impetuous blaſts with eieleſſe rage
Catch in their fury, and make nothing of,
Striues in his little world of man to out-ſcorne,

The too and fro conflicting winde and raine,
This night wherein the cub-drawne Beare would couch,
The Lyon, and the belly pinched Wolfe
Keepe their furre dry, vnbonneted he runnes,
And bids what will take all.

Kent. But who is with him?

Gent. None but the foole, who labours to out-ieft
His heart ſtrooke iniuries.

Kent. Sir I do know you,
And dare vpon the warrant of my Arte,
Commend a deare thing to you, there is diuiſion,
Although as yet the face of it be couer'd
With mutuall cunning, twixt Albany and Cornwall.
But true it is, from France there comes a power
Into this ſcatterd kingdom, who already wiſe in our negligence
Haue ſecret fee in ſome of our beſt Ports,
And are at point to ſhew their open banner,
Now to you, if on my credite you dare build ſo farre,
To make your ſpeed to Douer, you ſhall finde
Some that will thanke you, making iuſt report
Of how vnnaturall and bemadding ſorrow
The King hath cauſe to plaine;
I am a Gentleman of blood and breeding,
And from ſome knowledge and aſſurance,
Offer this Office to you.

Gent. I will talke farther with you.

Kent. No do not,
For confirmation that I much more
Then my outwall, open this purſe and take
What it containes, if you ſhall ſee Cordelia,
As doubt not but you ſhall, ſhew her this ring,
And ſhe will tell you who your fellow is,
That yet you do not know, fie on this ſtorme,
I will goe ſeeke the King.

Gent. Giue me your hand, haue you no more to ſay?

Kent. Few words, but to effect more then all yet,
That when we haue found the King,

Ile this way, you that, he that firſt lights
On him, hollow the other.

Exeunt.

Enter Lear and Foole.

Lear. Blow winde and cracke your cheekes, rage, blow
You cartericks, and Hircanios ſpout till you haue drencht
The ſteeples, drownd the cockes, you ſulpherous and Thought executing fires, vaunt-currers to
Oke-cleauing thunder-bolts, ſing my white head,
And thou all ſhaking thunder, ſmite flat
The thicke rotundity of the world, cracke natures
Mold, all Germains ſpill at once that make Ingratefull man.

Foole. O Nunckle, Court holy water in a dry houſe
Is better then this raine water out a doore,
Good Nunckle in, and aske thy daughters bleſſing,
Here's a night pitties neyther wiſe man nor foole.

Lear. Rumble thy belly full, ſpit fire, ſpout raine,
Nor raine, winde, thunder, fire, are my daughters,
I taske not you, you Elements with vnkindneſſe,
I neuer gaue you kingdome, cald you children,
You owe me no ſubſcription; why then let fall your horrible
Pleaſure, here I ſtand your ſlaue, a poore, infirme, weake, and Deſpiſed old man, but yet I call you ſeruile
Miniſters, that haue with two pernitious daughters ioyn'd
Your high engendered battell gainſt a head ſo old and white
As this, O tis foule.

Foole. He that has a houſe to put his head in, has a good head-peece, the codpeece that will houſe before the head, has any the head and he ſhall lowſe, ſo beggers marry many, the man that makes his toe, what he his heart ſhould make, ſhall haue a corne cry woe, and turne his ſleepe to wake, for there was neuer yet faire woman, but ſhe made mouthes in a glaſſe.

Lear. No, I will be the patterne of all patience,
I will ſay nothing.

Enter Kent.

Kent. Who's there?

Foole. Marry heere's grace and a codpis, that's a wiſeman and a foole.

Kent. Alaſſe ſir, ſit you heere?
Things that loue night, loue not ſuch nights as theſe;
The wrathfull Skies gallow, the very wanderer of the Darke, and makes them keepe their caues,
Since I was man, ſuch ſheetes of fire,
Such burſts of horrid thunder, ſuch grones of Roring winde and raine, I nere remember
To haue heard, mans nature cannot carry
The affliction, nor the force.

Lear. Let the great Gods that keepe this dreadfull
Thundring ore our heads, finde out their enemies now,
Tremble thou wretch that haſt within thee
Vndivulged crimes,, vnwhipt of Iuſtice,
Hide thee thou bloudy hand, thou periur'd, and
Thou ſimular man of vertue that art inceſtious,
Caytiffe in peeces ſhake, that vnder couert
And conuenient ſeeming, haſt practiſed on mans life,
Cloſe pent vp guilts, riue your concealed centers,
And cry theſe dreadfull ſummoners grace,
I am a man more ſind againſt their ſinning.

Kent. Alacke bare headed, gracious my Lord, hard by here is a houell, ſome friendſhip will it lend you gainſt the tempeſt, repoſe you there, whilſt I to this hard houſe, more hard then is the ſtone whereof tis rais'd, which euen but now demanding after me, denide me to come in, returne and force their ſcanted curteſie.

Lear. My wit begins to turne,
Come on my boy, how doſt my boy, art cold?
I am cold my ſelfe, where is this ſtraw my fellow,
The art of our neceſſities is ſtrange, that can
Make vilde things precious, come you houell poore,
Foole and knaue, I haue one part of my heart
That ſorrowes yet for thee.

Foole. He that has a little tine wit, with hey ho the winde and the raine, muſt make content with his fortunes fit, for the raine,

it

it raineth euery day.

Lear. True my good boy, come bring vs to this houell.

Enter Gloceſter, and the Baſtard with lights.

Gloſt. Alacke, alacke, Edmund I like not this Vnnaturall dealing, when I deſired their leaue
That I might pitty him, they tooke from me
The vſe of mine owne houſe, chargd me on paine
Of their diſpleaſure, neither to ſpeake of him,
Entreate for him, nor any way ſuſtaine him.

Baſt. Moſt ſauage and vnnaturall. (Dukes,

Gloſt. Go too, ſay you nothing, there's a diuiſion betwixt the
And a worſe matter then that, I haue receiued
A letter this night, tis dangerous to be ſpoken,
I haue lockt the letter in my Cloſet, theſe iniuries
The King now beares, will be reuenged home;
There's part of a power already landed,
We muſt incline to the King, I will ſeeke him,
And priuily releeue him; go you and maintaine talke
With the Duke, that my charity be not of him
Perceiued; if he aske for me, I am ill, and gone
To bed, though I die for it, as no leſſe is threatned me,
The King my old Maſter muſt be releeued, there is
Some ſtrange thing toward, Edmund, pray you be carefull.

Exit.

Baſt. This courteſie forbid thee, ſhall the Duke inſtantly know,
And of that letter to, this ſeemes a faire deſeruing,
And muſt draw to me that which my father loſes, no leſſe
Then all, then yonger riſes when the old do fall.

Exit.

Enter Lear, Kent; and Foole.

Kent. Here is the place my Lord, good my Lord enter, the tirrany of the open night's too ruffe for nature to endure.

Lear. Let me alone.

Kent Good my Lord enter.

Lear. Wilt breake my heart?

Kent. I had rather breake mine owne, good my Lord enter.

Lear.

Lear. Thou think'ſt tis much, that this crulentious ſtorme
Inuades vs to the skin, ſo tis to thee,
But where the greater malady is fixt,
The leſſer is ſcarſe felt, thou would'ſt ſhun a Beare,
But if thy flight lay toward the raging ſea,
Thoud'ſt meete the beare it'h mouth, when the mind's free,
The bodies delicate, the tempeſt in my minde,
Doth from my ſences take all feeling elſe,
Saue what beares their filiall ingratitude,
Is it not as this mouth ſhould teare this hand
For lifting food to it? but I will puniſh ſure;
No I will weepe no more; in ſuch a night as this!
O Regan, Gonorill, your old kinde father
Whoſe franke heart gaue you all, O that way madneſſe lies,
Let me ſhunne that, no more of that.

Kent. Good my Lord enter.

Lear. Prethee go in thy ſelfe, ſeeke thy owne eaſe,
This tempeſt will not giue me leaue to ponder
On things would hurt me more, but Ile go in,
Poore naked wretches, where ſo ere you are
That bide the pelting of this pittileſſe night,
How ſhall your houſe-leſſe heads, and vnfed ſides,
Your loopt and windowed raggedneſſe defend you
From ſeaſons ſuch as theſe, O I haue tane
Too little care of this, take phyſicke pompe,
Expoſe thy ſelfe to feele what wretches feele,
That thou maiſt ſhake the ſuperflux to them,
And ſhew the heauens more iuſt.

Foole. Come not in here Nunckle, here's a ſpirit, helpe me, helpe me.

Kent. Giue me thy hand, who's there?

Foole. A ſpirit, he ſayes his name is poore Tom.

Kent. What art thou that doſt grumble there in the ſtraw? come foorth.

Edg. Away, the foule fiend followes me, through the ſharpe hathorne blowes the cold winde, goe to thy cold bed & warme thee.

Lear.

Lear. Haſt thou giuen all to thy two daughters, and art thou come to this?

Edg. Who giues any thing to poore Tom, whom the foule fiend hath led through fire, and throgh foord, and whirli-poole, ore bog and quagmire, that has laide kniues vnder his pillow, & halters in his pue, ſet ratsbane by his pottage, made him proud of heart, to ride on a bay trotting horſe ouer foure incht bridges, to courſe his owne ſhadow for a traitor, bleſſe thy fiue wits, Toms a cold, bleſſe thee from whirle-windes, ſtarre-bluſting, & taking, do poore Tom ſome charity, whom the foule fiend vexes, there could I haue him now, and there, and there againe.

Lear. What, his daughters brought him to this paſſe,
Couldſt thou ſaue nothing? didſt thou giue them all?

Foole. Nay he reſerued a blanket, elſe wee had beene all ſhamed.

Lear. Now all the plagues that in the pendulous ayre
Hang fated ore mens faults, fall on thy daughters.

Kent. He hath no daughters ſir.

Lear. Death traitor, nothing could haue ſubdued nature
To ſuch a lowneſſe, but his vnkinde daughters,
Is it the faſhion that diſcarded fathers,
Should haue thus little mercy on their fleſh,
Iudicious puniſhment, twas this fleſh
Begot thoſe Pelicane daughters.

Edg. Pilicock ſate on pelicocks hill, a lo lo lo.

Foole. This cold night will turne vs all to fooles & madmen.

Edg. Take heed of the foule fiend, obey thy parents, keepe thy words iuſtly, ſweare not, commit not with mans ſworne ſpouſe, ſet not thy ſweet heart on proud array; Toms a cold.

Lear. What haſt thou beene?

Edg. A ſeruingman, proud in heart and minde, that curlde my haire, wore gloues in my cap, ſerued the luſt of my miſtris heart, and did the acte of darkneſſe with her, ſwore as many oaths as I ſpake words, and broke them in the ſweete face of heauen, one that ſlept in the contriuing of luſt, and wak't to do it, wine loued I deepely, dice dearely, and in woman, out paramord the Turke, falſe of heart, light of eare, bloudy of hand, hog in ſloth,

Fox

Fox in ſtealth, Wolfe in greedineſſe, Dog in madneſſe, Lyon in prey, let not the creeking of ſhooes, nor the ruſlings of ſilkes betray thy poore heart to women, keepe thy foote out of brothell, thy hand out of placket, thy pen from lenders booke, and defie the foule fiend, ſtill through the hathorne blowes the colde winde, hay no on ny, Dolphin my boy, my boy, ceaſe let him trot by.

Lear. Why thou wert better in thy graue, then to anſwer with thy vncouered body this extremity of the skies; is man no more but this? conſider him well, thou oweſt the worme no ſilke, the beaſt no hide, the ſheep no wooll, the cat no perfume, he'rs three ones are ſophiſticated, thou art the thing it ſelfe, vnaccomodated man is no more but ſuch a poore bare forked Animal as thou art, off, off you leadings, come on be true.

Foole. Prithee Nunckle be content, this is a naughty night to ſwim in, now a little fire in a wilde field, were like an old lechers heart, a ſmall ſparke, all the reſt in body colde, looke here comes a walking fire.

Enter Gloceſter.

Edg. This is the foule fiend Sirberdegibit, he begins at curfue, and walks till the firſt cocke, he gins the web, the pinqueuer the eye, and makes the hart lip, mildewes the white wheate, & hurts the poore creature of earth, ſwithald footed thrice the olde anelthu night Moore and her nine fold bid her, O light and her troth plight and arint thee, with arint thee.

Kent. How fares your Grace?

Lear. What's he?

Kent. Whoſe there? what iſt you ſeeke?

Gloſt. What are you there? your names.

Edg. Poore Tom, that eates the ſwimming frog, the toade, the toade pold, the wall-wort, and the water, that in the fruite of his heart, when the foule fiend rages,
Eates cowdung for ſallets, ſwallowes the old rat, and the ditchdog, drinkes the greene mantle of the ſtanding poole, who is whipt from tything to tything, and ſtock-puniſht and impriſoned, who hath had three ſutes to his backe, ſixe ſhirts to his body, horſe to ride, and weapon to weare.

But

But Mice and Rats, and ſuch ſmall Deere,
Hath beene Toms food for ſeuen long yeare.
Beware my follower, peace ſnulbug, peace thou fiend.

Gloſt. What, hath your Grace no better company?

Edg. The Prince of darknes is a Gentleman, modo hee's called, and ma hu——

Gloſt. Our fleſh and bloud is growne ſo vilde my Lord, that it doth hate what gets it.

Edg. Poore Toms a colde.

Gloſt. Go in with me, my duty cannot ſuffer to obey in al your daughters hard commands, though their iniunction be to barre my doores, and let this tyranous night take hold vpon you, yet haue I venter'd to come ſeeke you out, and bring you where both food and fire is ready.

Lear. Firſt let me talke with this Philoſopher;
What is the cauſe of thunder?

Kent. My good Lord take his offer, go into the houſe.

Lear. Ile talke a word with this moſt learned Theban; what is your ſtudy?

Edg. How to preuent the fiend, and to kill vermine.

Lear. Let me aske you one word in priuate.

Kent. Importune him to goe my Lord, his wits begin to vnſettle.

Gloſt. Canſt thou blame him?
His daughters ſeeke his death. O that good Kent,
He ſaid it would be thus, poore baniſht man,
Thou ſaiſt the King growes mad, ile tell thee friend,
I am almoſt mad my ſelfe; I had a ſonne
Now out-lawed from my bloud, he ſought my life
But lately, very late, I lou'd him friend,
No father his ſonne dearer, truth to tell thee,
The greefe has craz'd my wits.
What a night's this? I do beſeech your Grace.

Lear. O cry you mercy noble Philoſopher, your company.

Edg. Tom's a cold.

Gloſt In fellow there, into th'houell, keepe thee warme.

Lear. Come, let's in all.

Kent. This way my Lord.

Lear. With him I will keepe ſtill, with my Philoſopher.

Kent. Good my Lord ſooth him, let him take the fellow.

Gloſt. Take him you on.

Kent. Sirra come on, go along with vs.

Lear. Come good Athenian.

Gloſt. No words, no words, huſh.

Edg. Childe Rowland, to the darke towne come,
His word was ſtill fye, fo, and fum,
I ſmell the bloud of a Britiſh man.

Enter Cornwall and Baſtard.

Corn. I will haue my reuenge ere I depart the houſe.

Baſt. How my Lord I may be cenſured, that nature thus giues way to loyalty, ſome-thing feares me to thinke of.

Corn. I now perceiue it was not altogether your brothers euil diſpoſition made him ſeeke his death, but a prouoking merit, ſet a worke by a reproueable badneſſe in himſelfe.

Baſt. How malicious is my fortune, that I muſt repent to bee iuſt? this is the Letter he ſpoke off, which approues him an intelligent partie to the aduantages of France, O heauens, that his treaſon were, or not I the detecter.

Corn. Go with me to the Dutches.

Baſt. If the matter of this paper be certaine, you haue mighty buſineſſe in hand.

Corn. True or falſe, it hath made thee Earle of Gloceſter, ſeeke out where thy father is, that he may be ready for our apprehenſion.

Baſt. If I finde him comforting the King, it will ſtuffe his ſuſpition more fully, I will perſeuere in my courſe of loyalty, thogh the conflict be ſore betweene that and my bloud.

Corn. I will lay truſt vpon thee, and thou ſhalt finde a dearer father in my loue. Exit.

Enter Gloceſter, Lear, Kent, Foole, and Tom.

Gloſt. Here is better then the open ayre, take it thankfully, I will peece out the comfort with what addition I can, I will not be be long from you.

Kent. All the power of his wits haue giuen way to impatience, the Gods deſerue your kindneſſe.

Edg. Fretereto cals me, and tels me Nero is an angler in the lake of darkneſſe, pray innocent beware the foule fiend.

Foole. Prethee Nunckle tell me, whether a mad man may bee a Gentleman or a Yeoman.

Lear. A King, a King, to haue a thouſand with red burning ſpits come hiſſing in vpon them.

Edg. The foule fiend bites my backe.

Foole. Hee's mad that truſts in the tameneſſe of a Wolfe, a horſes health, a boyes loue, or a whores oath.

Lear. It ſhall be done, I will arraigne them ſtraight,
Come ſit thou heere moſt learned Iuſtice,
Thou ſapient ſir, ſit heere, now you ſhee Foxes———

Edg. Looke where he ſtands and glars, wantſt thou eies at triall madam, come ore the broome Beſſy to me.

Foole. Her boat hath a leake, and ſhe muſt not ſpeak,
Why ſhe dares not come ouer to thee.

Edg. The foule fiend haunts poore Tom in the voyce of a nightingale, Hoppedance cries in Toms belly for two white herring,
Croke not blacke Angell, I haue no food for thee.

Kent. How do you ſir? ſtand you not ſo amaz'd, will you lie downe and reſt vpon the Cuſhions?

Lear. Ile ſee their triall firſt, bring in their euidence, thou robbed man of iuſtice take thy place, & thou his yoke-fellow of equity, bench by his ſide, you are o'th commiſſion, ſit you too.

Ed. Let vs deale iuſtly, ſleepeſt or wakeſt thou iolly ſhepheard,
Thy ſheepe bee in the corne, and for one blaſt of thy minikin mouth, thy ſheepe ſhall take no harme, Pur the cat is gray.

Lear. Arraigne her firſt, tis Gonorill, I here take my oath before this honourable aſſembly, ſhe kickt the poore King her father.

Foole. Come hither Miſtreſſe, is your name Gonorill.

Lear. She cannot deny it.

Foole. Cry you mercy, I tooke you for a ioynt ſtoole.

Lear. And heres another whoſe warpt lookes proclaime
What ſtore her heart is made an, ſtop her there,

Armes, armes, ſword, fire, corruption in the place,
Falſe Iuſticer, why haſt thou let her ſcape?
Edg. Bleſſe thy fiue wits.
Kent. O pitty ſir, where is the patience now,
That you ſo oft haue boaſted to retaine.
Edg. My teares begin to take his part ſo much,
They'l marre my counterfeting.
Lear. The little dogs and all,
Trey, Blanch, and Sweet-hart, ſee they barke at me.
Edg. Tom will throw his head at them, auaunt you curs.
Be thy mouth, or blacke or white, tooth that poiſons if it bite,
Maſtiue, Gray-hound, Mungrel, Grim-hound, or Spaniell, Brach or Him, Bobtaile tike, or Trundle-taile, Tom will make them weepe and waile. For with throwing thus my head, dogs leape the hatch, and all are fled, loudla doodla, come march to wakes, and faires, and market townes, poore Tom thy horne is dry.
Lear. Then let them anotomize Regan, ſee what breeds about her,
Hart is there any cauſe in nature that makes this hardneſſe;
You ſir, I entertaine you for one of my hundred,
Onely I do not like the faſhion of your garment; you'l ſay
They are Perſian attire, but let them be changed.
Kent. Now good my Lord lie here a while.
Lear. Make no noiſe, make no noiſe, draw the Curtaines, ſo, ſo, ſo, wee'l go to ſupper in the morning, ſo, ſo, ſo.

Enter Gloceſter.

Gloſt. Come hither friend, where is the King my maſter?
Kent. Here ſir, but trouble him not, his wits are gone.
Gloſt. Good friend, I prethee take him in thy armes,
I haue ore-heard a plot of death vpon him,
There is a Litter ready, lay him in it, and driue towards Douer, friend,
Where thou ſhalt meete both welcome and protection; take vp thy maſter,
If thou ſhouldſt dally halfe an houre, his life with thine,
And all that offer to defend him, ſtand in aſſured loſſe,

Take

Take vp to keepe, and follow me that will to ſome prouiſi
Giue thee quicke conduct.
Kent. Oppreſſed nature ſleepes,
This reſt might yet haue balmed thy broken ſinewes,
Which if conuenience will not allow, ſtand in hard cure,
Come helpe to beare thy Maſter, thou muſt not ſtay behinde.
Exit
Gloſt. Come, come, away.
Edg. When we our betters ſee bearing our woes,
We ſcarſely thinke our miſeries our foes.
Who alone ſuffers, moſt i'th minde,
Leauing free things and happy ſhowes behinde,
But then the minde much ſufferance doth ore-skip,
When griefe hath mates, and bearing fellowſhip:
How light and portable my paine ſeemes now,
When that which makes me bend, makes the King bow;
He childed as I fatherd, Tom away,
Marke the high noiſes, and thy ſelfe bewray,
When falſe opinion, whoſe wrong thoughts defile thee,
In thy iuſt proofe repeals and reconciles thee,
What will hap more to night, ſafe ſcape the King,
Lurke, lurke.

Enter Cornwall, Regan, Gonorill, and Baſtard.

Corn. Poſte ſpeedily to my Lord your husband, ſhew him this Letter,
The army of France is landed, ſeeke out the villaine Gloceſter.
Regan. Hang him inſtantly.
Gon. Plucke out his eyes.
Gorn. Leaue him to my diſpleaſure, Edmund keepe you our ſi-ſter company. The reuenge we are bound to take vpon your trai-
terous father, are not fit for your beholding, aduiſe the Duke where you are going to a moſt feſtiuant preparation, wee are bound to the like.
Our poſte ſhall be ſwift and intelligence betwixt vs;
Farwell deare ſiſter, farwell my Lord of Gloceſter.
How now, wheres the King?

Enter

Enter Steward.

Stew. My Lord of Gloceſter hath conueyed him hence,
Some fiue or ſixe and thirty of his Knights hot queſtrits after him, met him at gate, who with ſome other of the Lords dependants are gone with him towards Douer, where they boaſt to haue well armed friends.

Corn. Get horſes for your miſtris.

Gon. Farwell ſweet Lord and ſiſter.

Exit Gon. and Baſt.

Corn. Edmund farwell: go ſeeke the traitor Gloceſter,
Pinion him like a theefe, bring him before vs,
Though we may not paſſe vpon his life
Without the forme of iuſtice, yet our power
Shall do a curteſie to our wrath, which men may blame
But not controle; who's there, the traitor?

Enter Gloceſter, brought in by two or three.

Reg. Ingratefull Fox tis he.

Corn. Binde faſt his corky armes.

Gloſt. What meanes your Graces, good my friends conſider,
You are my gueſts, do me no foule play friends.

Corn. Binde him I ſay.

Reg. Hard, hard, O filthy traitor!

Gloſt. Vnmercifull Lady as you are, I am true.

Corn. To this chaire binde him, villaine thou ſhalt find——

Gloſt. By the kinde Gods tis moſt ignobly done, to plucke me by the beard.

Reg. So white, and ſuch a Traitor, (my chin,

Gloſt. Naughty Lady, theſe haires which thou doſt rauiſh fró
Will quicken and accuſe thee, I am your hoſt:
With robbers hands, my hoſpitable fauours
You ſhould not ruffell thus, what will you do?

Corn. Come ſir, what letters had you late from France?

Reg. Be ſimple anſwerer, for we know the truth.

Corn. And what confederacy haue you with the traitors lately footed in the kingdome?

Reg. To whoſe hands haue you ſent the lunaticke king, ſpeak?

Gloſt.

Gloſt. I haue a letter gueſſingly ſet downe,
Which came from one that's of a neutrall heart,
And not from one oppoſed.

Corn. Cunning.

Reg. And falſe.

Corn. Where haſt thou ſent the King?

Gloſt. To Douer.

Reg. Wherefore to Douer? waſt thou not charg'd at perill——

Corn. Wherefore to Douer? let him firſt anſwer that.

Gloſt. I am tide tot'h ſtake, and I muſt ſtand the courſe.

Reg. Wherefore to Douer ſir?

Gloſt. Becauſe I would not ſee thy cruell nayles
Plucke out his poore olde eyes, nor thy fierce ſiſter
In his aurynted fleſh raſh boriſh phangs,
The ſea with ſuch a ſtorme of his lou'd head
In hell blacke night endur'd, would haue laid vp
And quencht the ſteeled fires, yet poore old heart,
He holpt the heauens to rage,
If Wolues had at thy gate heard that dearne time,
Thou ſhouldſt haue ſaid, good Porter turne the key,
All cruels elſe ſubſcrib'd, but I ſhall ſee
The winged vengeance ouertake ſuch children.

Corn. See't ſhalt thou neuer, fellowes hold the chaire,
Vpon thoſe eies of thine, Ile ſet my foote.

Gloſt. He that will thinke to liue till he be old——

Giue me ſome helpe, ô cruell, ô ye Gods!

Reg. One ſide will mocke another, tother to.

Corn. If you ſee vengeance——

Seruant. Hold your hand my Lord,
I haue ſeru'd you euer ſince I was a childe, (hold.
But better ſeruice haue I neuer done you, then now to bid you

Reg. How now you dog.

Ser. If you did weare a beard vpon your chin, ide ſhake it on this quarrell, what do you meane?

Corn. My villaine. Draw and fight.

Ser. Why then come on, and take the chance of anger.

Reg. Giue me thy ſword, a peſant ſtand vp thus.

She

She takes a ſword, and runs at him behinde.

Seruant. Oh I am ſlaine my Lord, yet haue you one eye left to ſee ſome miſchiefe on him, oh! He dies.

Corn. Leaſt it ſee more, preuent it, out vilde Ielly,
Where is thy luſter now?

Gloſt. All darke and comfortles, wheres my ſonne Edmund?
Edmund vnbridle all the ſparkes of nature, to quit this horrid acte.

Reg. Out villaine, thou calſt on him that hates thee, it was hee that made the ouerture of thy treaſons to vs, who is too good to pitty thee.

Gloſt. O my follies, then Edgar was abuſed,
Kinde Gods forgiue me that, and proſper him.

Reg. Goe thruſt him out at gates, and let him ſmell his way to Douer, how iſt my Lord? how looke you?

Corn. I haue receiued a hurt, follow me Lady,
Turne out that eyeleſſe villaine, throw this ſlaue vpon
The dunghill, Regan I bleed apace, vntimely
Comes this hurt, giue me your arme. Exit.

Seruant. Ile neuer care what wickedneſſe I do,
If this man come to good.

2. Seruant. If ſhe liue long, and in the end meet the old courſe of death, women will all turne monſters.

1 Ser. Let's follow the old Earle, and get the bedlam
To lead him where he would, his rogiſh madneſſe
Allowes it ſelfe to any thing.

2 Ser. Goe thou, ile fetch ſome flaxe and whites of egges to apply to his bleeding face, now heauen helpe him.

Exit.

Enter Edgar.

Edg. Yet better thus, and knowne to be contemn'd,
Then ſtill contemn'd and flattered to be worſt,
The loweſt and moſt deiected thing of Fortune
Stands ſtill in experience, liues not in feare,
The lamentable change is from the beſt,
The worſt returnes to laughter,

Who's

Who's here, my father poorely led, world, world, ô world!
But that thy ſtrange mutations make vs hate thee,
Life would not yeeld to age.

Enter Gloſter led by an olde man.

Old man. O my good Lord, I haue bene your tenant, & your fathers tenant this foureſcore——

Gloſt. Away, get thee away, good friend be gone,
Thy comforts can do me no good at all,
Thee they may hurt.

Old man. Alacke ſir, you cannot ſee your way.

Gloſt. I haue no way, and therefore want no eies,
I ſtumbled when I ſaw, full oft tis ſeene
Our meanes ſecure vs, and our meere defects
Proue our commodities; ah deare ſonne Edgar,
The food of thy abuſed fathers wrath,
Might I but liue to ſee thee in my tuch,
Ide ſay I had eyes againe.

Old man. How now, who's there?

Edg. O Gods, who iſt can ſay I am at the worſt,
I am worſe then ere I was.

Old man. Tis poore mad Tom.

Edg. And worſe I may be yet, the worſt is not,
As long as we can ſay, this is the worſt.

Old man. Fellow where goeſt?

Gloſt. Is it a begger man?

Old man. Mad man, and begger too.

Gloſt. He has ſome reaſon, elſe he could not beg,
In the laſt nights ſtorme I ſuch a fellow ſaw,
Which made me thinke a man a worme, my ſonne
Came then into my minde, and yet my minde
Was then ſcarſe friends with him, I haue heard more ſince,
As flyes are to'th wanton boyes, are we to'th Gods,
They bit vs for their ſport.

Edg. How ſhould this be? bad is the trade that muſt play the foole to ſorrow, angring it ſelfe and others; bleſſe thee maſter.

Gloſt. Is that the naked fellow?

Old man. I my Lord.
Glost. Then prethee get thee gone, if for my sake
Thou wilt ore-take vs here a mile or twaine
Ith' way to Douer, do it for ancient loue,
And bring some couering for this naked soule,
Who ile entreate to lead me.
Old man. Alacke sir he is mad.
Glost. 'Tis the times plague, when madmen leade the blinde,
Do as I bid thee, or rather do thy pleasure,
Aboue the rest, be gone.
Old man. Ile bring him the best parrell that I haue,
Come on't what will.
Glo. Sirra, naked fellow.
Edg. Poore Toms a cold, I cannot dance it farther.
Glo. Come hither fellow.
Edg. Blesse thy sweete eyes, they bleed.
Glo. Knowst thou the way to Douer?
Edg. Both stile and gate, horse-way, and foot-path,
Poore Tom hath beene scard out of his good wits,
Blesse the good man from the foule fiend,
Fiue fiends haue beene in poore Tom at once,
Of lust, as Obidicut, Hobbididence Prince of dumbnesse,
Mahu of stealing, Modo of murder, Stiberdigebit of Mobing,
And Mohing who since possesses chambermaids
And waiting women, so, blesse thee master.
Glo. Here take this purse, thou whom the heauens plagues
Haue humbled to all strokes, that I am wretched, makes thee
The happier, heauens deale so still,
Let the superfluous and lust-dieted man
That stands your ordinance, that will not see
Because he doth not feele, feele your power quickly,
So distribution should vnder excesse,
And each man haue enough: dost thou know Douer?
Edg. I master.
Glo. There is a cliffe, whose high and bending head
Lookes firmely in the confined deepe,
Bring me but to the very brim of it,

And ile repaire the misery thou dost beare,
With something rich about me,
From that place shall I no leading need.
Edg. Giue me thy arme, poore Tom shall lead thee.

Enter Gonorill and Bastard.

Gon. Welcome my Lord, I marualle our milde husband
Not met vs on the way: now, where's your Master?

Enter Steward.

Stew. Madame within, but neuer man so chang'd; I told him of the Army that was landed, he smiled at it, I told him you were coming, his answer was, the worse; of Glosters treachery, and of the loyall seruice of his sonne, when I enformd him, then he cald me sot, and told me I had turnd the wrong side out, what hee should most desire, seemes pleasant to him, what like offensiue.
Gon. Then shall you go no further.
It is the cowish curre of his spirit
That dares not vndertake, heel not feele wrongs
Which tye him to an answer, our wishes on the way
May proue effects, backe Edmund to my brother,
Hasten his musters, and conduct his powers,
I must change armes at home, and giue the distaffe
Into my husbands hands; this trusty seruant
Shall passe betweene vs, ere long you are like to heare
If you dare venter in your owne behalfe
A mistresses coward, weare this spare speech,
Decline your head: this kisse if it durst speake,
Would stretch thy spirits vp into the ayre;
Conceiue, and faryewell.
Bast. Yours in the rankes of death.
Gon. My most deare Gloster, to thee womans seruices are due,
My foote vsurpes my head.
Stew. Madame, heere comes my Lord.

Exit Steward.

Gon. I haue bene worth the whiſtle.

Enter the Duke of Albeney.

Alb. O Gonorill, you are not worth the duſt which the winde
Blowes in your face, I feare your diſpoſition,
That nature which contemnes it origin,
Cannot be bordered certaine in it ſelfe,
She that her ſelfe will ſliuer and disbranch
From her materiall ſap, perforce muſt wither,
And come to deadly vſe.

Gon. No more, the text is fooliſh.

Alb. Wiſedome and goodneſſe to the vilde ſeeme vilde,
Filths ſauour but themſelues, what haue you done?
Tygers, not daughters, what haue you perform'd?
A father, and a gracious aged man,
Whoſe reuerence the head-lugd Beare would licke;
Moſt barbarous, moſt degenerate haue you madded;
Could my good brother ſuffer you to do it?
A man, a Prince, by him ſo benefliсted,
If that the heauens do not their viſible ſpirits
Send quickly downe to tame the vilde offences, it will come
Humanly muſt perforce prey on it ſelfe, like monſters of the deepe.

Gon. Milke liuer'd man,
That beareſt a cheeke for blowes, a head for wrongs,
Who haſt not in thy browes an eie deſeruing thine honour,
From thy ſuffering, that not know'ſt fooles, do theſe villains pity
Who are puniſht ere they haue done their miſchiefe,
Where's thy drum? France ſpreds his banners in our noiſeleſſe
Land, with plumed helme thy ſlaier begins threats,
Whiles thou a morall foole, ſits ſtill and cries
Alacke, why does he ſo?

Alb. See thy ſelfe diuell, proper deformiry ſeemes not in the fiend, ſo horrid as in woman.

Gon. O vaine foole.

Alb. Thou chang'd and ſelfe-couerd thing, for ſhame
Be-monſter not thy feature, wer't my fitneſſe

To let theſe hands obey my bloud,
They are apt enough to diſlecate and teare
Thy fleſh and bones, how ere thou art a fiend,
A womans ſhape doth ſhield thee.

Gon. Marry your man-hood now———

Enter a Gentleman.

Alb. What newes?

Gent. O my good Lord, the Duke of Cornwalls dead, ſlaine by his ſeruant, going to put out the other eie of Gloſter.

Alb. Gloſters eyes?

Gen. A ſeruant that he bred, thrald with remorſe,
Oppos'd againſt the acte, bending his ſword
To his great maſter, who thereat enraged,
Flew on him, and amongſt them feld him dead,
But not without that harmfull ſtroke,
Which ſince hath pluckt him after.

Alb. This ſhewes you are aboue your Iuſtices,
That theſe our neather crimes ſo ſpeedily can venge.
But oh poore Gloceſter, loſt he his other eye?

Gent. Both, both my Lord, this letter Madam craues a ſpeedy Anſwer, tis from your ſiſter.

Gon. One way I like this well,
But being widow, and my Gloceſter with her,
May all the building on my fancy plucke,
Vpon my hatefull life, another way the newes is not ſo tooke,
Ile reade and anſwer. Exit.

Alb. Where was his ſonne when they did take his eies?

Gent. Come with my Lady hither.

Alb. He is not here.

Gent. No my good Lord, I met him backe againe.

Alb. Knowes he the wickedneſſe?

Gent. I my good Lord, twas he inform'd againſt him,
And quit the houſe on purpoſe, that their puniſhment
Might haue the freer courſe.

Alb. Gloceſter, I liue to thanke thee for the loue
Thou ſhewedſt the King, and to reuenge thy eyes;

Come hether friend, tell me what more thou knoweſt.

Exit.

Enter Kent and a Gentleman.

Kent. Why the King of France is ſo ſuddenly gone backe,
Know you the reaſon?

Gent. Something he left imperfect in the ſtate, which ſince his comming foorth is thought of, which imports to the Kingdom, ſo much feare and danger that his perſonall returne was moſt required and neceſſary.

Kent. Who hath he left behinde him, Generall?

Gent. The Marſhall of France, Mounſieur la Far.

Kent. Did your letters pierce the Queene to any demonſtration of griefe?

Gent. I ſay ſhe tooke them, read them in my preſence,
And now and then an ample teare trild downe
Her delicate cheeke, it ſeemd ſhe was a Queene ore her paſſion,
Who moſt rebell-like, ſought to be King ore her.

Kent. O then it moued her.

Gent. Not to a rage, patience and ſorrow ſtreme,
Who ſhould expreſſe her goodlieſt, you haue ſeene
Sun-ſhine and raine at once, her ſmiles and teares,
Were like a better way, thoſe happy ſmilets
That plaid on her ripe lip, ſeeme not to know
What gueſts were in her eyes, which parted thence
As pearles from Diamonds dropt; in briefe,
Sorrow would be a rarity moſt beloued,
If all could ſo become it.

Kent. Made ſhe no verball queſtion?

Gent. Faith once or twice ſhe heau'd the name of father
Pantingly foorth, as if it preſt her heart,
Cried ſiſters, ſiſters, ſhame of Ladies ſiſters;
Kent. Father, ſiſters, what ith ſtorme ith night?
Let pitty not be beleeu'd, there ſhe ſhooke
The holy water from her heauenly eyes,
And clamour moiſtened her, then away ſhe ſtarted,
To deale with griefe alone.

Kent, It is the ſtars, the ſtars aboue vs gouern our conditions,
Elſe

Elſe one ſelfe mate and mate could not beget
Such different iſſues; you ſpoke not with her ſince?

Gent. No.

Kent. Was this before the King returnd?

Gent. No, ſince.

Kent. Well ſir, the poore diſtreſſed Lear's ith Towne,
Who ſometime in his better tune remembers
What we are come about, and by no meanes will yeeld to ſee his daughter.

Gent. Why good ſir?

Kent. A ſoueraigne ſhame ſo elbowes him, his own vnkindnes
That ſtript her from his benediction, turnd her
To forraine caſualties, gaue her deare rights
To his dog-hearted daughters; theſe things ſting his minde
So venomouſly, that burning ſhame detaines him from Cordelia.

Gent. Alacke poore Gentleman.

Kent. Of Albanies and Cornwals powers you heard not?

Gent. Tis ſo they are afoote.

Kent. Well ſir, ile bring you to our maſter Lear,
And leaue you to attend him, ſome deare cauſe
Will in concealement wrap me vp a while,
When I am knowne aright you ſhall not greeue,
Lending me this acquaintance, I pray you go along with me.

Exit.

Enter Cordelia, Doctor, and others.

Cor. Alacke tis he, why he was met euen now,
As mad as the vent ſea, ſinging aloud,
Crownd with ranke femiter and furrow weeds,
With hor-docks, hemlocke, nettles, coockow-flowers,
Darnell and all the idle weeds that grow
In our ſuſtaining, Corne, a century is ſent foorth,
Search euery acre in the high growne field,
And bring him to our eye, what can mans wiſedome do
In the reſtoring his bereaued ſence? he that can helpe him
Take all my outward worth.

Doct. There is meanes Madame,
Our foſter nurſe of nature is repoſe,

The

The which he lackes, that to prouoke in him
Are many ſimples operatiue, whoſe power
Will cloſe the eye of anguiſh.

Cord. All bleſt ſecrets, all you vnpubliſht vertues of the earth,
Spring with my teares, be aidant and remediat
In the good mans diſtreſſe, ſeeke, ſeeke for him,
Leaſt his vngouernd rage diſſolue the life,
That wants the meanes to leade it.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſſen. Newes Madam, the Britiſh powers are marching hetherward.

Cord. Tis knowne before, our preparation ſtands
In expectation of them, ô deare Father,
It is thy buſineſſe that I go about, therefore great France,
My mourning and important teares hath pittied,
No blowne ambition doth our armes inſite,
But loue, deare loue, and our aged fathers right,
Soone may I heare and ſee him. Exit.

Enter Regan and Steward.

Reg. But are my brothers powers ſet foorth?

Stew. I Madam.

Reg. Himſelfe in perſon?

Stew. Madam with much ado, your ſiſter's the better Soldier.

Reg. Lord Edmund ſpake not with your Lady at home?

Stew. No Madam.

Reg. What might import my ſiſters letter to him?

Stew. I know not Lady.

Reg. Faith he is poſted hence on a ſerious matter,
It was great ignorance, Gloceſters eies being out,
To let him liue, where he arriues he moues
All hearts againſt vs, and now I thinke is gone,
In pitty of his miſery to diſpatch his nighted life,
Moreouer to deſcrie the ſtrength of the Army.

Stew. I muſt needs after him with my Letters.

Reg. Our troope ſets foorth to morrow, ſtay with vs,

The wayes are dangerous.

Stew. I may not Madam, my Lady charg'd my dutie in this buſineſſe.

Reg. Why ſhould ſhe write to Edmund? Might not you
Tranſport her purpoſes by word, belike
Something, I know not what, Ile loue thee much,
Let me vnſeale the Letter.

Stew. Madam Ide rather———

Reg. I know your Lady does not loue her husband,
I am ſure of that: and at her late being heere
She gaue ſtrange aliads, and moſt ſpeaking lookes
To Noble Edmund, I know you are of her boſome.

Stew, I Madam.

Reg. I ſpeake in vnderſtanding, for I know't,
Therefore I do aduiſe you take this note:
My Lord is dead, Edmund and I haue talkt,
And more conuenient is he for my hand,
Then for your Ladies: you may gather more,
If you do finde him, pray you giue him this,
And when your miſtris heares thus much from you,
I pray deſire her call her wiſedome to her, ſo farewell,
If you do chance to heare of that blinde traitor,
Preferment fals on him that cuts him off.

Stew. Would I could meet him Madam, I would ſhew
What Lady I do follow. Exit.

Reg. Fare thee well.

Enter Gloſter and Edmund.

Glo. When ſhall we come to'th top of that ſame hill?

Edg. You do climbe it vp now, looke how we labour?

Glo. Me thinkes the ground is euen.

Edg. Horrible ſteepe: hearke, do you heare the ſea?

Glo. No truly.

Edg. Why then your other ſenſes grow imperfect
By your eies anguiſh.

Glo. So may it be indeed,
Methinkes thy voice is altered, and thou ſpeakſt

With better phraſe and matter then thou didſt.
Edg. Y'are much deceiued, in nothing am I changd,
But in my garments.
Glo. Me thinkes y'are better ſpoken.
Edg. Come on ſir, here's the place, ſtand ſtill, how fearfull
And dizy tis to caſt ones eyes ſo low:
The Crowes and Choughes that wing the midway ayre
Shew ſcarſe ſo groſſe as beetles, halfe way downe
Hangs one that gathers Sampire, dreadfull trade,
Me thinkes he ſeemes no bigger then his head:
The fiſhermen that walke vpon the beake
Appeare like Mice; and yon tall Anchoring barke
Diminiſht to her cocke; her cocke aboue
Almoſt too ſmall for ſight. The murmuring ſurge,
That on the vnnumbred idle pebbles chafe,
Cannot be heard: it is ſo hie Ile looke no more
Leaſt my braine turne, and the deficient ſight
Topple downe headlong.
Glo. Set me where you ſtand.
Edg. Giue me your hand: you are now within a foot
Of the extreme verge; for all beneath the Moone
Would I not leape vpright.
Glo. Let go my hand:
Heere friend's another purſe, in it a Iewell
Well worth a poore mans taking. Fairies and Gods
Proſper it with thee: go thou farther off,
Bid me farewell, and let me heare thee going.
Edg. Now fare you well good ſir.
Glo. With all my heart.
Edg. Why I do trifle thus with his diſpaire, tis done to cure it.
Glo. O you mighty Gods, He kneels
This world I do renounce, and in your ſights
Shake patiently my great affliction off,
If I could beare it longer, and not fall
To quarrell with your great oppoſeleſſe wils,
My ſnuffe and loathed part of nature ſhould
Burne it ſelfe out: if Edgar liue, O bleſſe,

Now

Now fellow fare thee well. He falles
Edg. Gon ſir, farewell, and yet I know not how conceite may rob the treaſury of life, when life it ſelfe yeelds to the theft: had he bene where he thought, by this thought had bene paſt: Aliue or dead? Ho you ſir, heare you ſir, ſpeake, thus might hee paſſe indeed, yet he reuiues, what are you ſir?
Glo. Away, and let me dye.
Edg. Hadſt thou bene ought but goſmore feathers ayre,
So many fadome downe precipitating,
Thou hadſt ſhiuerd like an Egge, but thou doſt breath,
Haſt heauy ſubſtance, bleedſt not, ſpeakſt, art ſound:
Ten Maſts at each make not the altitude,
Which thou haſt perpendicularly fell,
Thy lifes a miracle, ſpeake yet againe.
Glo. But haue I fallen or no?
Edg. From the dread ſummons of this chalkie borne,
Looke vp a hight; the ſhrill gorg'd Larke ſo farre
Cannot be ſeene or heard, do but looke vp.
Glo. Alacke, I haue no eyes:
Is wretchedneſſe depriu'd that benefite
To end it ſelfe by death? Twas yet ſome comfort,
When miſery could beguile the Tyrants rage,
And fruſtrate his proud will.
Edg. Giue me your arme:
Vp, ſo, how feele you your legges? you ſtand.
Glo. Too well, too well.
Edg. This is aboue all ſtrangeneſſe:
Vpon the crowne of the cliffe, what thing was that
Which parted from you?
Glo. A poore vnfortunate begger.
Edg. As I ſtood heere below, methought his eyes
Were two full Moones; a had a thouſand noſes,
Hornes, welkt and waued like the enridged ſea.
It was ſome fiend, therefore thou happy Father
Thinke that the cleereſt Gods, who made their honors
Of mens impoſſibilities, haue preſerued thee.
Glo. I do remember now, henceforth Ile beare

Af-

Affliction till it do cry out it selfe
Enough, enough, and dye: that thing you speake of,
I tooke it for a man: often would he say
The fiend, the fiend, he led me to that place.

Edg. Bare, free, and patient thoughts: but who comes heere,
The safer sense will nere accommodate his maister thus.

Enter Lear mad.

Lear. No, they cannot touch me for coyning, I am the King himselfe.

Edg. O thou side piercing sight.

Lear. Nature is aboue Art in that respect, ther's your presse-money. That fellow handles his bow like a Crow-keeper, draw me a clothiers yard. Looke, looke, a Mouse; peace, peace, this toasted cheese will do it. Ther's my gantlet, Ile proue it on a Gyant, bring vp the browne bils. O well flowne birde in the ayre. Hagh, giue the word.

Edg. Sweet Margerum.

Lear. Passe,

Glo. I know that voice.

Lear. Ha Gonoril, ha Regan, they flatter'd me like a dogge, and told me I had white haires in my beard, ere the black ones were there; to say I and no to all I saide: I and no too was no good Diuinity. When the raine came to wet me once, and the wind to make me chatter, when the thunder would not peace at my bidding, there I found them, there I smelt them out: goe too, they are not men of their words, they told mee I was euery thing, tis a lye, I am not argue-proofe.

Glost. The tricke of that voyce I doe well remember, ist not the King?

Lear I, euery inch a King: when I do stare see how the subiect quakes: I pardon that mans life, what was thy cause, Adultery? thou shalt not dye for adultery: no, the wren goes toot, and the small guilded flye do letcher in my sight; let copulation thriue. For Glosters bastard son was kinder to his father then my daughters got tweene the lawfull sheets, toot Luxury, pell mell, for I want souldiers. Behold yon simpring dame, whose face between her her forkes presageth snow, that minces vertue, and do shake the head, heare of pleasures name to fichew, nor the soyled Horsse goes toot with a more riotous appetite: downe from the waste they are Centaures, though women all aboue, but to the girdle do the gods inherit, beneath is all the fiends, theres Hell, theres darkenesse, theres the sulphury pit, burning, scalding, stench, consummation, fie, fie, fie, pah, pah: Giue mee an ounce of Ciuet, good Apothecary, to sweeten my imagination, ther's money for thee.

Glo. O let me kisse that hand.

Lear. Here wipe it first, it smels of mortality.

Glo. O ruin'd peece of nature, this great world shold so weare out to naught, do you know me?

Lear. I remember thy eyes well enough, dost thou squiny on me: no, do thy worst blinde Cupid, Ile not loue: Read thou that challenge, marke the penning on't.

Glo. Were all the letters suns I could not see one.

Edg. I would not take this from report, it is, & my hart breaks at it.

Lear. Read.

Glo. What, with the case of eyes.

Lear. O ho, are you there with me? No eyes in your head nor money in your purse? your eyes are in a heauy case, your purse in a light; yet you see how this world goes?

Glo. I see it feelingly.

Lea. What art mad? A man may see how the world goes with no eyes. Looke with thy eares, see how yon Iustice railes vpon yon simple theefe: hearke in thy eare, handy dandy, which is the theefe, which is the Iustice. Thou hast seene a farmers dog barke at a begger.

Glo. I sir.

Lear. And the creature run from the cur? There thou mightst behold the great image of Authoritie, a dogge, so bad in office. Thou Rascall Beadle hold thy bloody hand; why dost thou lash that whore? strip thine owne backe, thy blood hotly lusts to vse her in that kind for which thou whipst her. The vsurer hangs the cozener, through tattered ragges small vices do appeare, Robes and furd-gownes hides all. Get thee glasse eyes, and like a scurvy politician, seeme to see the things thou doest not; No, now pull off my boots, harder, harder, so.

Edg. O matter and impertinency, mixt reason in madnesse.

Lear. If thou wilt weepe my fortune, take my eyes; I know thee well enough, thy name is Gloster, thou must be patient, we came crying hither: thou knowst the first time that we smel the aire, we waile and cry. I will preach to thee, marke me.

Glo. Alack, alack, the day.

Lear. When we are borne, we crie that wee are come to this great stage of fooles: this a good blocke. It were a delicate stratagem to shoot a troope of horse with fell, and when I haue stole vpon these sonnes in law, then kill, kill, kill, kill, kill, kill.

Enter three Gentlemen.

Gent. O here he is, lay hands vpon him sirs.

Lear. No rescue, what a prisoner? I am eene the naturall foole of Fortune: vse me well, you shall haue a ransom. Let me haue a Chirurgeon, I am cut to'th braines.

Gent. You shall haue any thing.

Lear. No seconds, all my selfe: why this would make a man of salt to vse his eyes for garden water-pottes, I and laying Autumnes dust.

Gent. Good Sir.

Lear. I will dye brauely like a Bridegroome. What, I will bee iouiall: Come, come, I am a King my masters, know you that?

Gent. You are a royall one, and we obey you.

Lear. Then theres life int, nay if you get it you shall get it with running.

Exit King running.

Gent. A sight most pittifull in the meanest wretch, past speaking of in a king: thou hast one daughter who redeemes nature from the generall curse which twaine hath brought her to.

Edg. Haile gentle sir.

Gent. Sir speed you, what's your will?

Edg. Do you heare ought of a battell toward?

Gent. Most sure and vulgar, euery ones heares
That can distinguish sense.

Edg. But by your fauour, how neeres the other army?

Gent.

Gent. Neere and on speed for't, the maine descries,
Stands on the hourely thoughts.

Edg. I thanke you sir, thats all.

Gent. Though that the Queene on speciall cause is heere,
His army is mou'd on.

Exit

Edg. I thanke you sir.

Glo. You euer gentle gods take my breath from me,
Let not my worser spirit tempt me againe,
To dye before you please.

Edg. Well pray you father.

Glo. Now good sir what are you.

Edg. A most poore man, made lame by fortunes blowes,
Who by the Art of knowne and feeling sorrowes
Am pregnant to good pitty. Giue me your hand,
Ile leade you to some biding.

Glost. Hearty thankes, the bounty and the benizon of heauen to boot, to boot.

Enter Steward.

Stew. A proclaim'd prize, most happy; that eyles head of thine was first framed flesh to raise my fortunes. Thou most vnhappy Traitor, briefely thy selfe remember, the sword is out that must destroy thee.

Glo. Now let thy friendly hand put strength enough to't.

Stew. Wherefore bolde pezant darst thou support a publisht traytor, hence least the infection of his fortune take like hold on thee, let go his arme.

Edg. Chill not let go sir without cagion.

Stew. Let go slaue, or thou dieft.

Edg. Good Gentleman goe your gate, let poore volke passe: and chud haue beene zwaggar'd out of my life, it wold not haue bene zo long by a vortnight: nay come not neere the olde man, keepe out chuore ye, or ile try whether your costard or my bat be the harder, chill be plaine with you.

Stew. Out dunghill.

They fight.

Edg. Chil pick your teeth zir, come no matter for your foines.

Stew.

Stew. Slaue thou haſt ſlaine me, Villaine take my purſe:
If euer thou wilt thriue, bury my body,
And giue the Letters which thou findſt about me
To Edmund Earle of Gloſter, ſeeke him out, vpon
The Britiſh party: ô vntimely death! death.

He dyes.

Edg. I know thee well, a ſeruiceable villaine,
As dutious to the vices of thy Miſtris,
As badneſſe would deſire.

Glo. What is he dead?

Edg. Sit you downe father, reſt you, lets ſee his pockets,
Theſe Letters that he ſpeakes of may be my friends,
Hee's dead, I am onely ſorry he had no other deathſman.
Let vs ſee, leaue gentle wax, and manners blame vs not,
To know our enemies minds wee'd rip their hearts,
Their papers is more lawfull.

A Letter.

Let your reciprocall vowes be remembred.
You haue many opportunities to cut him off.
If your will want not, time and place will be fruitfully offered.
There is nothing done: If he returne the Conqueror,
Then am I the priſoner, and his bed my Iayle,
From the loath'd warmth whereof deliuer me,
And ſupply the place for your labour.

Your wife (ſo I would ſay) & your affectionate ſeruant,

Gonorill.

Edg. O vndiſtinguiſht ſpace of womans wit,
A plot vpon her vertuous husbands life,
And the exchange my Brother: heere in the ſands
Thee Ile rake vp, the poſt vnſanctified
Of murtherous letchers, and in the mature time
With this vngracious paper ſtrike the ſight
Of the death practiſd Duke, for him tis well,
That of his death and buſineſſe I can tell.

Glo. The King is mad, how ſtiffe is my vilde ſenſe,
That I ſtand vp, and haue ingenious feeling

Of my huge ſorrowes, better I were diſtract,
So ſhould my thoughts be fenced from my greeſes,
And woes by wrong imaginations, loſe
The knowledge of themſelues.

A Drumme afarre off.

Edg. Giue me your hand:
Farre off methinkes I heare the beaten drum.
Come Father Ile beſtow you with a friend. Exit

Enter Cordelia, Kent, and Doctor.

Cor. O thou good Kent,
How ſhall I liue and worke to match thy goodneſſe,
My life will be too ſhort, and euery meaſure faile me.

Kent. To be acknowledg'd Madam is ore-paid,
All my reports go with the modeſt truth,
Nor more, nor clipt, but ſo.

Cor. Be better ſuited,
Theſe weeds are memories of thoſe worſer houres,
I prethee put them off.

Kent. Pardon me deere Madam,
Yet to be knowne ſhortens my made intent,
My boone I make it that you know me not,
Till time and I thinke meet.

Cor. Then be it ſo: my Lord how does the king.

Doct. Madam ſleepes ſtill.

Cor. O you kinde Gods,
Cure this great breach in his abuſed nature,
The vntun'd and hurrying ſenſes, O winde vp,
Of this childe-changed Father.

Doct. So pleaſe your Maieſty we may wake the King
He hath ſlept long.

Cor. Be gouern'd by your knowledge, and proceede
Ith ſway of your owne will: is he array'd?

Doct. I Madam, in the heauineſſe of his ſleepe,
We put freſh garments on him.

Kent. Good Madam be by when we do awake him,
I doubt not of his temperance.

Cor. Very well.

Doct. Please you draw neere: louder the musicke there.

Cor. O my deere father,
Restoration hang thy medicine on my lippes,
And let this kisse repaire those violent harmes
That my two sisters haue in thy reuerence made.

Kent. Kinde and deere Princesse.

Cor. Had you not bin their father, these white flakes
Had challeng'd pitty of them. Was this a face
To be expos'd against the warring windes,
To stand against the deepe dread bolted thunder,
In the most terrible and nimble stroke
Of quicke crosse lightning, to watch poore Per du,
With this thin helme? Mine iniurious dogge,
Though he had bit me, should haue stood that night
Against my fire, and wast thou faine (poore father)
To houill thee with swine and rogues forlorne,
In short and musty straw? Alack, alacke,
Tis wonder that thy life and wits at once,
Had not concluded all. He wakes, speake to him.

Doct. Madam do you, tis fittest.

C. How does my royal lord? how fares your maiesty

Lear. You do me wrong to take me out a'th graue,
Thou art a soule in bliss, but I am bound
Vpon a wheele of fire, that mine owne teares
Do scald like molten Lead.

Cor. Sir, know ye me?

Lear. Y'are a spirit I know, when did you dye?

Cor. Still, still, farre wide.

Doct. He's scarse awake, let hlm alone awhile.

Lea. Where haue I bin? where am I? faire day light!
I am mightily abus'd; I should ene dye with pity
To see another thus. I know not what to say:
I will not sweare these are my hands, let's see,
I feele this pin pricke, would I were assur'd of my con(dition.

Cor. O looke vpon me sir,
And hold your hands in benediction ore me,

No sir, you must not kneele.

Lear. Pray do not mocke me:
I am a very foolish fond olde man,
Fourescore and vpward, and to deale plainly,
I feare I am not perfect in my minde.
Me thinkes I should know you, and know this man,
Yet I am doubtfull: for I am mainly ignorant
What place this is, and all the skill I haue
Remembers not these garments: nor I know not
Where I did lodge last night. Do no laugh at me,
For (as I am a man) I thinke this Lady
To be my childe Cordelia.

Cor. And so I am.

Lear. Be your teares wet? Yes faith: I pray weepe not,
If you haue poison for me I will drinke it:
I know you do not loue me, for your sisters
Haue (as I do remember) done me wrong,
You haue some cause, they haue not.

Cor. No cause, no cause.

Lear. Am I in France?

Kent. In your owne kingdome sir.

Lear. Do not abuse me.

Doct. Be comforted good Madame, the great rage you see is cured in him, and yet it is danger to make him euen ore the time hee has lost; desire him to goe in, trouble him no more till further setling.

Cor. Wilt please your Highnesse walke?

Lear. You must beare with me:
Pray now forget and forgiue,
I am olde and foolish. Exeunt.

Manet Kent and Gentleman.

Gen. Holds it true sir that the Duke of Cornwall was so slaine?

Kent. Most certaine sir.

Gent. Who is conductor of his people?

Kent. As tis said, the bastard sonne of Gloster.

Gent. They say Edgar his banisht sonne, is with the Earle of Kent in Germany.

Kent. Report is changeable, tis time to looke about,
The powers of the kingdome approch apace.
Gent. The arbitrement is like to be bloody, fare you well sir.
Kent. My point and period will be throughly wrought,
Or well, or ill, as this dayes battels fought.

Enter Edmund, Regan, and their powers.

Bast. Know of the Duke if his last purpose holde,
Or whether since he is aduisd by ought
To change the course, he is full of alteration
And selfe-reprouing, bring his constant pleasure.
Reg. Our sisters man is certainly miscarried.
Bast. Tis to be doubted Madam.
Reg. Now sweet Lord,
You know the goodnesse I intend vpon you:
Tell me truly, but then speake the truth,
Do you not loue my sister?
Bast. I honor'd loue.
Reg. But haue you neuer found my brothers way,
To the forefended place?
Bast. That thought abuses you.
Reg. I am doubtfull that you haue beene coniunct
And bosom'd with her, as farre as we call hers.
Bast. No by mine honor Madam.
Reg. I neuer shall endure her,
Deere my Lord be not familiar with her.
Bast. Feare me not, she and the Duke her husband.

Enter Albany and Gonorill with troopes.

Gon. I had rather loose the battell
Then that sister should loosen him and me.
Alb. Our very louing sister well be-met,
For this I heare the King is come to his daughter
With others, whom the rigour of our State
Forc'd to cry out. Where I could not be honest
I neuer yet was valiant: for this businesse

It toucheth vs, as France inuades our land,
Not bolds the king, with others whom I feare,
Most iust and heauy causes make oppose.
Bast. Sir you speake nobly.
Regan. Why is this reason'd?
Gon. Combine together gainst the enemy;
For these domesticke doore particulars,
Are not to question heere.
Alb. Let vs then determine
With the Ancient of warre on our proceedings.
Bast. I shall attend you presently at your Tent.
Reg. Sister youle go with vs?
Gon. No.
Reg. Tis most conuenient, pray you go with vs.
Gon. O ho, I know the Riddle, I will go. Exit

Enter Edgar.

Edg. If ere your Grace had speech with one so poore,
Heare me one word.
Alb. Ile ouertake you, speake.
Edg. Before you fight the battell, ope this Letter,
If you haue victory let the trumpet sounde
For him that brought it, wretched though I seeme,
I can produce a Champion, that will prooue
What is auouched there. If you miscarry,
Your businesse of the world hath so an end,
Fortune loue you.
Alb. Stay till I haue read the letter.
Edg. I was forbid it,
When time shall serue let but the Herald cry,
And Ile appeare againe. Exit
Alb. Why fare thee well, I will looke on the paper.

Enter Edmund.

Bast. The enemy's in view, draw vp your powers,
Hard is the guesse of their great strength and forces
By diligēt discouery, but your hast is now vrgd on you

Alb. We will greet the time.

Baſt. To both theſe ſiſters haue I ſworne my loue,
Each iealous of the other, as the ſting are of the Adder,
Which of them ſhall I take, both one
Or neither; neither can be enioy'd
If both remaine aliue: to take the Widdow,
Exaſperates, makes mad her ſiſter Gonorill,
And hardly ſhall I carry out my ſide
Her husband being aliue. Now then wee'l vſe
His countenance for the battell, which being done
Let her that would be rid of him deuiſe
His ſpeedy taking off: as for his mercie
Which he extends to Lear and to Cordelia,
The battell done, and they within our power,
Shall neuer ſee his pardon: for my ſtate
Stands on me to defend, not to debate. Exit

Alarum: Enter the powers of France ouer the ſtage, Cordelia with her Father in her hand.

Enter Edgar and Gloſter.

Edg. Heere Father, take the ſhadow of this buſh
For your good hoaſt: pray that the right may thriue.
If euer I returne to you againe,
Ile bring you comfort. Exit

Glo. Grace go with you ſir.

Alarum and retreat. Enter Edgar.

Edg. Away olde man, giue me thy hand, away,
King Lear hath loſt, he and his daughter tane:
Giue me thy hand, come on.

Glo. No farther ſir, a man may rot euen heere.

Edg. What in ill thoughes agen? Men muſt endure,
Their going hence, euen as their comming hither,
Ripeneſſe is all come on. Exit.

Enter Edmund, with Lear and Cordelia priſoners.

Baſt. Some officers take them away, good guard,
Vntill their greater pleaſures beſt be knowne
That

That are to cenſure them.

Cor. We are not the firſt,
Who with beſt meaning haue incurr'd the worſt:
For thee oppreſſed King am I caſt downe,
My ſelfe could elſe out-frowne falſe fortunes frowne.
Shall we not ſee theſe daughters, and theſe ſiſters?

Lear. No, no, come let's away to priſon,
We two alone will ſing like birds i'th cage:
When thou doſt aske me bleſſing, Ile kneele downe
And aske of thee forgiueneſſe: ſo weell liue,
And pray, and tell old tales, and laugh
At gilded Butterflies, and heare poore Rogues
Talke of Court newes, and weel talke with them too,
Who looſes, and who wins; whoſe in, whoſe out;
And take vpon's the myſtery of things,
As if we were Gods ſpies: and weel weare out
In a walld priſon, packes and ſects of great ones,
That ebbe and flow by the Moone.

Baſt. Take them away.

Lear. Vpon ſuch ſacrifices my Cordelia
The gods themſelues throw incenſe. Haue I caught thee?
He that parts vs ſhall bring a brand from heauen,
And fire vs hence like Foxes, wipe thine eyes,
The good ſhall deuoure em, flesh and fell,
Ere they ſhall make vs weepe? Weele ſee em ſtarue firſt. Exit

Baſt. Come hither Captaine, hearke.
Take thou this note, go follow them to priſon,
One ſtep I haue aduanc't thee, if thou doſt as this inſtructs thee,
Thou doſt make thy way to Noble fortunes:
Know thou this, that men are as the time is;
To be tender minded does not become a ſword,
Thy great employment will not beare queſtion,
Either ſay thou't do't, or thriue by other meanes.

Cap. Ile doot my Lord.

Baſt. About it, and write happy when thou haſt done,
Marke I ſay inſtantly, and carry it ſo
As I haue ſet it downe.

Cap

Cap. I cannot draw a Cart, nor eate dryed oates,
If it be mans worke, Ile doo't.

Enter the Duke, the two Ladies, and others.

Alb. Sir you haue shewne to day your valiant straine,
And Fortune led you well: you haue the Captiues
That were the opposites of this dayes strife:
We do require them of you so to vse them,
As we shall finde their merits, and our safety
May equally determine.

Bast. Sir I thought it fit,
To send the olde and miserable King
To some retention, and appointed guard,
Whose age has charmes in it, whose Title more,
To plucke the common bosse from his side,
And turne our impresse Launces in our eyes
Which do command them. With him I sent the Queene:
My reason all the same, and they are ready to morrow,
Or at a further space, to appeare where you shall hold
Your Session at this time: we sweate and bleed,
The friend hath lost his friend, and the best quarrels
In the heate are curst by those that feele their sharpenesse.
The question of Cordelia and her father
Requires a fitter place,

Alb. Sir by your patience,
I hold you but a subiect of this warre, not as a brother.

Reg. That's as we list to grace him.
Methinkes our pleasure should haue beene demanded
Ere you had spoke so farre. He led our powers,
Bore the Commission of my place and person,
The which immediate may well stand vp,
And call it selfe your brother.

Gon. Not so hot: in his owne grace he doth exalt himselfe,
More then in your aduancement.

Reg. In my right by me inuested, he compeers the best.

Gon. That were the most, if he should husband you.

Reg. Iesters do oft proue Prophets.

Gonor.

Gon. Hola, hola, that eye that told you so, looke but a squint.

Reg. Lady I am not well, else I should answer
From a full flowing stomacke. Generall,
Take thou my soldiers, prisoners, patrimony,
Witnesse the world, that I create thee heere
My Lord and master.

Gon. Meane you to enioy him then?

Alb. The let alone lies not in your good will.

Bast. Nor in thine Lord.

Alb. Halfe blooded fellow, yes.

Bast. Let the drum strike, and proue my title good.

Alb. Stay yet, heare reason: Edmund, I arrest thee
On capitall treason; and in thine attaint,
This gilded Serpent: for your claime faire sister,
I bare it in the interest of my wife,
Tis she is subcontracted to her Lord,
And I her husband contradict the banes.
If you will marry, make your loue to me,
My Lady is bespoke. Thou art arm'd Gloster,
If none appeare to proue vpon thy head,
Thy hainous, manifest, and many treasons,
There is my pledge, Ile proue it on thy heart
Ere I taste bread, thou art in nothing lesse
Then I haue heere proclaim'd thee.

Reg. Sicke, ô sicke.

Gon. If not, Ile nere trust poyson.

Bast. Ther's my exchange, what in the world he is,
That names me traitor, villain-like he lyes,
Call by thy Trumpet, he that dares approach
On him, on you, who not, I will maintaine
My truth and honor firmely.

Alb. A Herald ho.

Bast. A herald ho, a herald.

Alb. Trust to thy single vertue, for thy soldiers
All leuied in my name, haue in my name tooke their discharge.

Reg. This sickneſſe growes vpon me.

Alb. She is not well, conuey her to my tent,

Come hither Herald, let the Trumpet ſound, and read out this.

Cap. Sound Trumpet.

Her. If any man of quality or degree, in the hoaſt of the Army, will maintaine vpon Edmund, ſuppoſed Earle of Gloceſter, that he's a manifold traitor, let him appeare at the thirde ſound of the Trumpet: he is bold in his defence.

Baſt. Sound. Againe.

Enter Edgar at the third ſound, with a trumpet before him.

Alb. Aske him his purpoſes, why he appeares
Vpon this call o'th trumpet?

Her. What are you? your name and quality?
And why you anſwer this preſent ſummons?

Edg. O know my name is loſt by Treaſons tooth:
Bare-gnawne and canker-bit,
Where is the aduerſary I come to cope with all?

Alb. What is that aduerſary?

Edg. What's he that ſpeakes for Edmund Earle of Gloſter?

Baſt. Himſelfe, what ſayſt thou to him?

Edg. Draw thy ſword,
That if my ſpeech offend a noble heart, thy arme
May do thee iuſtice, heere is mine:
Behold it is the priuiledge of my tongue,
My oath and profeſſion. I proteſt,
Maugre thy ſtrength, youth, place and eminence,
Deſpight thy victor, ſword, and fire new fortun'd,
Thy valor, and thy heart, thou art a traitor:
Falſe to the gods, thy brother, and thy father,
Conſpicuate gainſt this high illuſtrious Prince,
And from th'extremeſt vpward of thy head,
To the deſcent and duſt beneath thy feet,
A moſt toad-ſpotted traitor: ſay thou no,
This ſword, this arme, and my beſt ſpirits,
Is bent to proue vpon thy heart, whereto I ſpeake thou lyeſt.

Baſt. In wiſedome I ſhould aske thy name,
But ſince thy outſide lookes ſo faire and warlike,
And that thy being ſome ſay of breeding breathes,
By right of knight-hood I diſdaine and ſpurne,

With the hell hatedly ore-turn'd thy heart,
Which for they yet glance by, and ſcarſely bruiſe,
This ſword of mine ſhall giue them inſtant way,
Where they ſhall reſt for euer, Trumpets ſpeake.

Alb. Saue him, ſaue him.

Gon. This is meere practiſe Gloſter, by the law of Armes
Thou art not bound to offer an vnknowne oppoſite,
Thou art not vanquiſht, but couſned and beguild.

Alb. Stop your mouth Dame, or with this paper ſhall I ſtop it: thou worſe then any thing, reade thine owne euill. Nay, no tearing Lady, I perceiue you know't.

Gon. Say if I do, the lawes are mine not thine, who ſhal araign me for it.

Alb. Monſter, knowſt thou this paper?

Gon. Aske me not what I know. Exit Gonoril.

Alb. Go after her, ſhe's deſperate, gouerne her.

Baſt. What you haue charg'd me with, that haue I done,
And more, much more, the time will bring it out.
Tis paſt, and ſo am I: but what art thou that haſt this fortune on me? If thou beeſt noble, I do forgiue thee.

Edg. Let's exchange charity,
I am no leſſe in blood then thou art Edmund,
If more, the more thou haſt wrongd me.
My name is Edgar, and thy fathers ſonne,
The Gods are iuſt, and of our pleaſant vertues
Make inſtruments to ſcourge vs: the darke and vitious place
Where he thee got, coſt him his eyes.

Baſt. Thou haſt ſpoken truth,
The wheele is come full circkled, I am heere.

Alb. Me thought thy very gate did propheſie
A royall nobleneſſe, I muſt embrace thee,
Let ſorow ſplit my heart if I did euer hate thee or thy father.

Edg. Worthy Prince I know it.

Alb. Where haue you hid your ſelfe?
How haue you knowne the miſeries of your father?

Edg. By nurſing them my Lord,
Liſt a breefe tale, and when tis told,

O that my heart would burſt. The bloody proclamation
To eſcape that followed me ſo neere,
(O our liues ſweetneſſe, that with the paine of death VVould hourely dye, rather then dye at once)
Taught me to ſhift into a mad-mans rags,
To aſſume a ſemblance that very dogges diſdain'd:
And in this habit met I my father with his bleeding rings,
The precious ſtones new loſt; Became his guide,
Led him, begd for him, ſau'd him from diſpaire.
Neuer (O Father) reueald my ſelfe vnto him,
Vntill ſome halfe houre paſt when I was arm'd,
Not ſure, though hoping of this good ſucceſſe,
I askt his bleſſing, and from firſt to laſt
Told him my pilgrimage: but his flawd heart
Alacke too weake the conflict to ſupport,
Twixt two extremes of paſſion, ioy and greefe,
Burſt ſmilingly.

Baſt. This ſpeech of yours hath mooued me,
And ſhall perchance do good, but ſpeake you on,
You looke as you had ſomething more to ſay.

Alb. If there be any more more wofull, hold it in.
For I am almoſt readie to diſſolue.

Edg. This would haue ſeem'd a period to ſuch
As loue not ſorrow, but another to amplifie too much,
VVould make much more, and top extremity.
VVhilſt I was big in clamor, came there in a man,
VVho hauing ſeene me in my worſt eſtate,
Shund my abhord ſociety: but then finding
Who twas that ſo indur'd, with his ſtrong armes
He faſtened on my necke, and bellowd out
As hee'd burſt heauen, threw me on my father,
And told the pitteous tale of Lear and him,
That euer eare receiued, which in recounting
His greefe grew puiſant, and the ſtrings of life
Began to cracke twice, then the trumpets ſounded,
And there I left him traunſt.

Alb. But who was this?

Edg.

Edg. Kent ſir, the baniſht Kent, who in diſguiſe,
Followed his enemy king, and did him ſeruice
Improper for a ſlaue.

Enter one with a bloody knife.

Gent. Helpe, helpe.

Alb. What kinde of helpe? what meanes that bloody knife?

Gent. Its hot, it ſmokes, it came euen from the heart of——

Alb. Who man? ſpeake.

Gent. Your Lady ſir, your Lady; and her ſiſter
By her is poyſon'd: ſhe has confeſt it.

Baſt. I was contracted to them both, all three
Now marry in an inſtant.

Alb. Produce their bodies be they aliue or dead:
This iuſtice of the heauens that makes vs tremble,
Touches not with pity. Enter Kent

Edg. Here comes Kent ſir.

Alb. O tis he, the time will not allow
The complement that very manners vrges.

Kent. I am come to bid my King and maſter aye good night,
Is he not heere?

Alb. Great things of vs forgot. Speake Edmund, where's the king, and wher's Cordelia? Seeſt thou this obiect Kent?

The bodies of Gonorill & Regan are brought in.

Kent. Alacke, why thus.

Baſt. Yet Edmund was belou'd: the one the other poiſond for my ſake, and after ſlew her ſelfe.

Alb. Euen ſo, couer their faces.

Baſt. I pant for life: ſome good I meane to do deſpight of my owne nature. Quickly ſend, bee briefe, into the Caſtle for my Writ, tis on the life of Lear, & on Cordelia: nay, ſend in time.

Alb. Run, run, O run.

Edg. To who my Lord? who hath the office?
Send thy token of repreeue.

Baſt. Well thought on, take my ſword, giue it the Captaine.

Alb. Haſt thee for thy life.

Baſt. He hath commiſſion from thy wife & me, to hang Cordelia in the priſon, and to lay the blame vpon her own deſpaire.

Alb.

Alb. The Gods defend her, beare him hence a while.

Enter Lear with Cordelia in his armes.

Lear. Howle, howle, howle, howle: O you are men of stones,
Had I your tongues and eyes, I would vse them so,
That heauens vault should cracke: O, she is gone for euer.
I know when one is dead, and when one liues,
Shees dead as earth: Lend me a looking-glasse,
If that her breath will mist and staine the stone, she then liues.

Kent. Is this the promist end?

Edg. Or image of that horror?

Alb. Fall and cease.

Lear. This feather stirs, she liues, if it be so, it is a chance that do's redeeme all sorrowes that euer I haue felt.

Kent A my good master.

Lear. Prethee away.

Edg. 'Tis Noble Kent your friend.

Lear. A plague vpon you murdrous traitors all, I might haue saued her, now shees gone for euer: Cordelia, Cordelia, stay a little. What ist thou sayst? her voice was euer soft, gentle & low, an excellent thing in women. I kild the slaue that was a hanging thee.

Cap. 'Tis true my Lords hee did.

Lear. Did I not fellow? I ha seene the day, that with my biting Fauchion I would haue made them skip: I am old now, and these same crosses spoile me. Who are you? Mine eyes are none o'th best, Ile tell you straight.

Kent. If Fortune bragd of two she loued or hated,
One of them we behold.

Lear. Are not you Kent?

Kent. The same your seruant Kent, wher is your seruāt Caius?

Lear. Hees a good fellow, I can tell that,
Heel strike and quickly too, hees dead and rotten.

Kent. No my good Lord, I am the very man.

Lear. Ile see that straight.

Kent. That from your life of difference and decay,
Haue followed your sad steps.

Lear. You are welcome hether.

Kent. Nor no man else: All's cheereless, darke, and deadly,
Your eldest daughters haue fore-doom'd themselues,
And desperately are dead.

Lear. So I thinke too.

Alb. He knowes not what he sees, and vaine it is
That we present vs to him.

Edgar Very bootlesse.

Enter Captaine

Cap: Edmund is dead my Lord.

Alb: Thats but a trifle heere: you Lords and Noble friends, know our intent, what comfort to this decay may come, shalbe applied: for vs we will resigne during the life of this old maiesty to him our absolute power, you to your rights with boote, and such addition as your honors haue more then merited, al friends shall taste the wages of their vertue, and all foes the cup of their deseruings: O see, see.

Lear. And my poore foole is hangd: no, no life, why should a dog, a horse, a rat haue life, and thou no breath at all? O thou wilt come no more, neuer, neuer, neuer: pray vndo this button; thanke you sir, O, o, o, o, o.

Edg. He faints, my Lord, my Lord.

Lear: Breake heart, I prethe breake.

Edg: Looke vp my Lord.

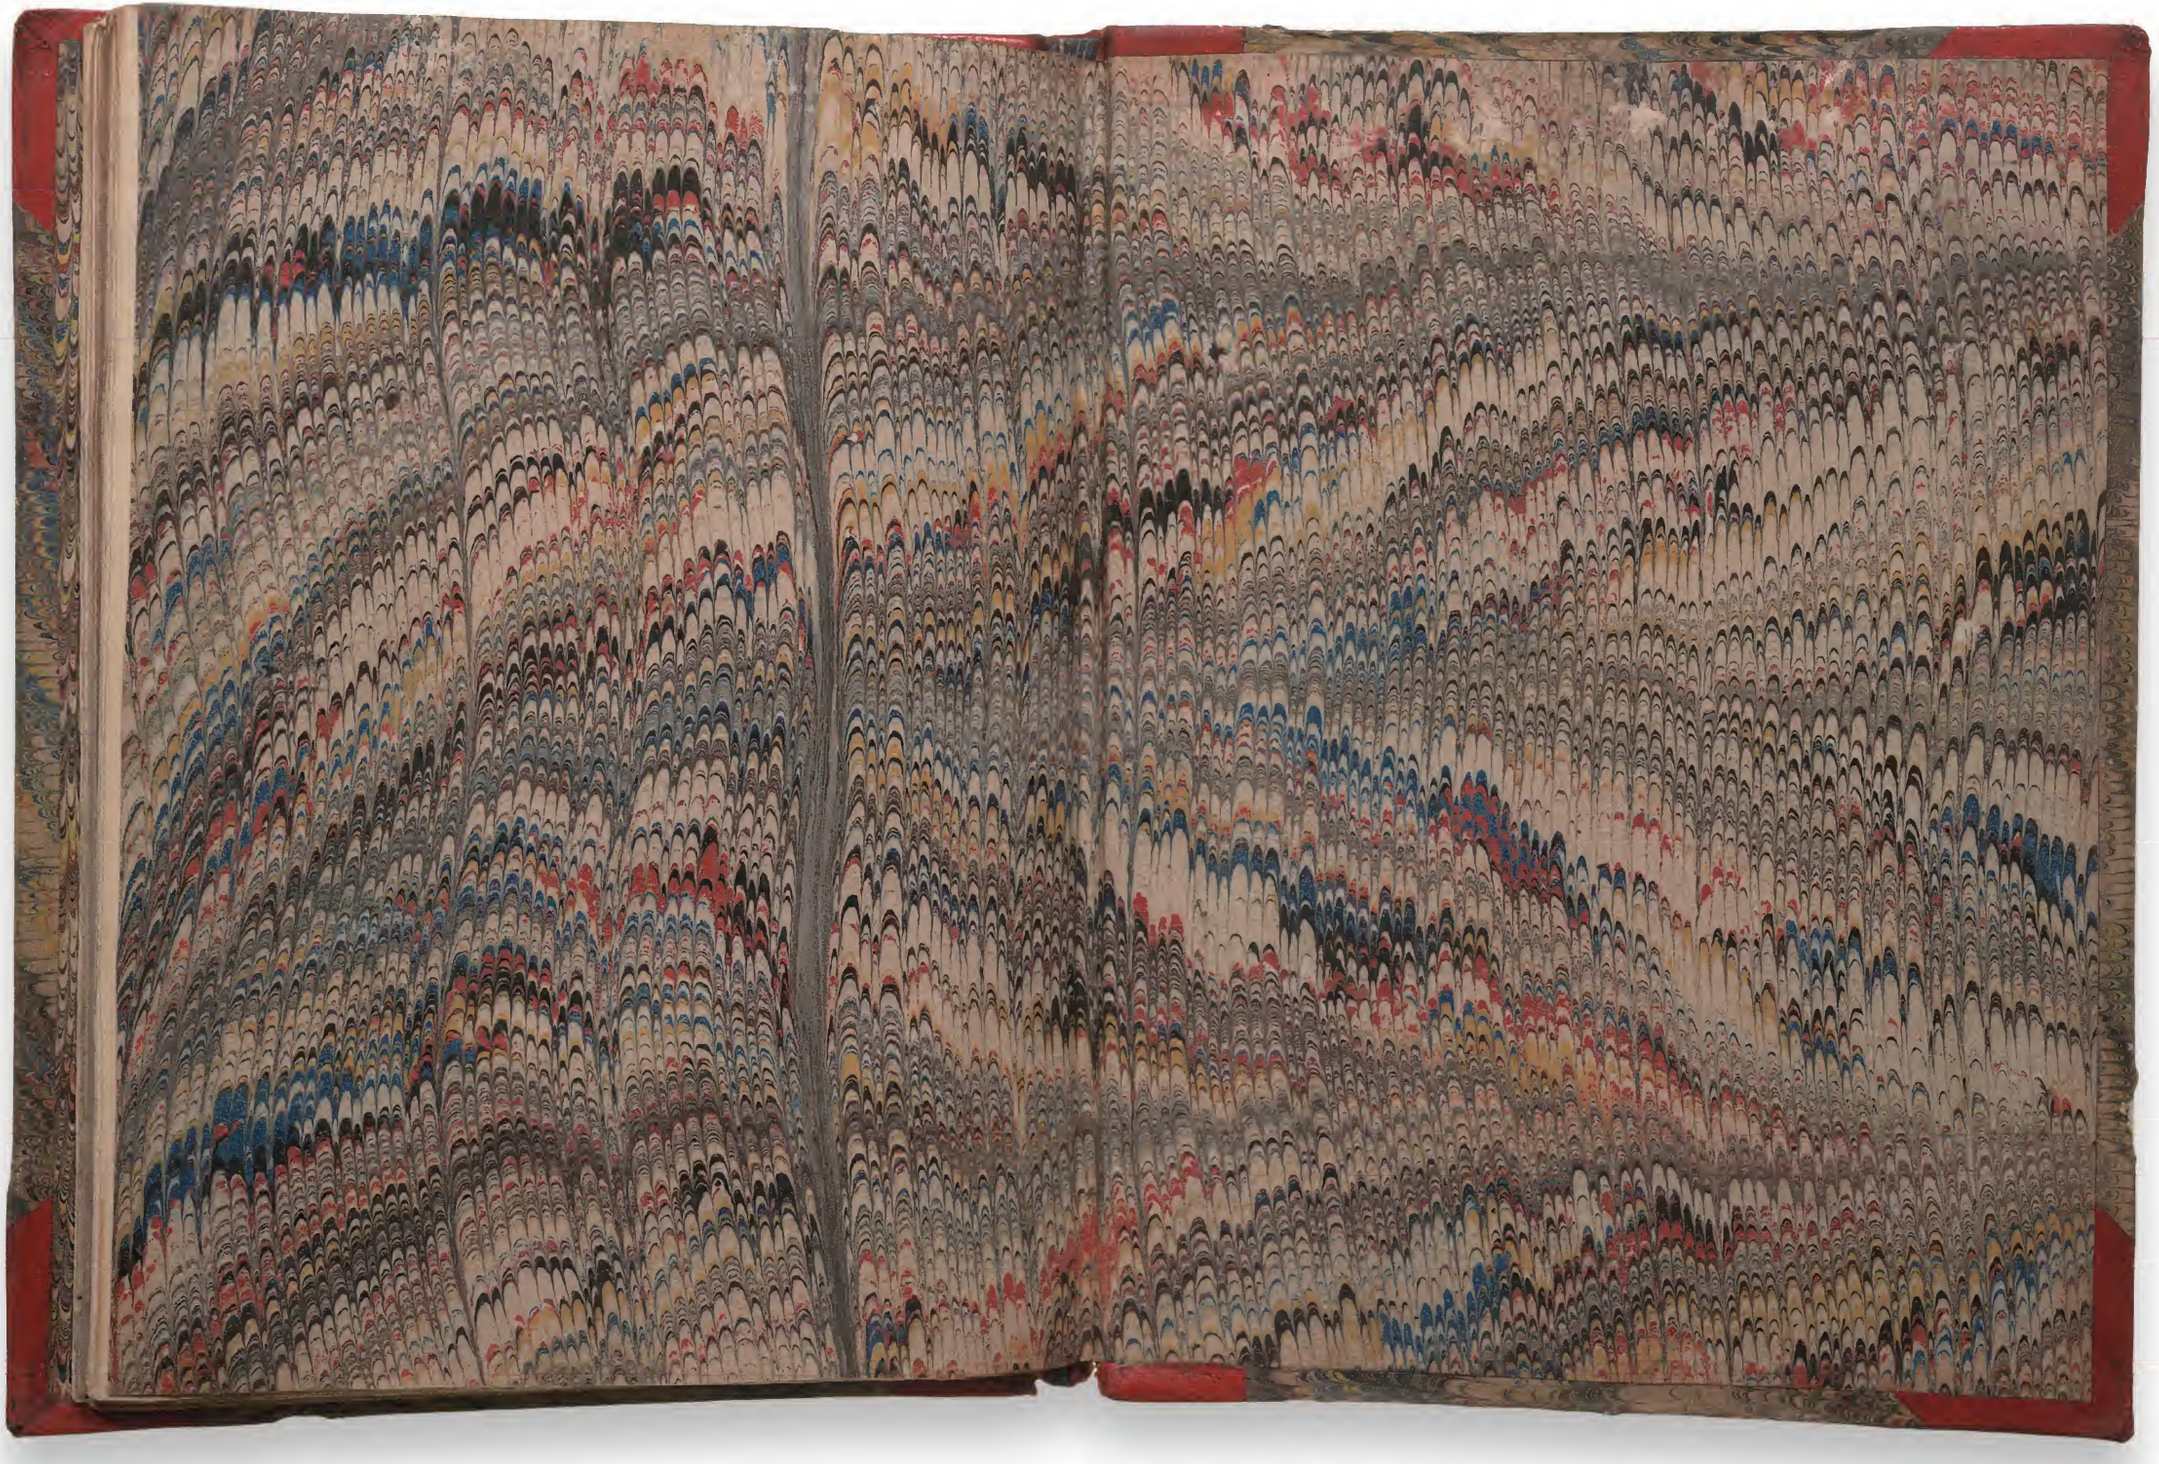
Kent: Vex not his ghost, O let him passe,
he hates him much, that would vpon the wracke
Of this tough world stretch him out longer.

Edg: O he is gone indeed.

Kent: The wonder is, he hath endured so long,
He but vsurpt his life.

Duke: Beare them from hence, our present businesse
Is to generall woe: friends of my soule, you twaine
Rule in this kingdome, and the good state sustaine.

Kent: I haue a iourney sir, shortly to go,
My master cals, and I must not say no.

Duke The waight of this sad time we must obay,
Speake what we feele, not what we ought to say:
The oldest haue borne most, we that are yong,
Shall neuer see so much, nor liue so long.


FINIS.
